in 1993 samuel p huntington boldly asserted in the pages of foreign affairs the preeminent magazine on foreign policy and international relations that world politics was entering a new phase one in which cultural differences in religion history language and tradition were replacing cold war tensions and would soon become the world s fundamental points of conflict huntington s striking thesis elicited both criticism and praise from the media and political experts around the world more than a decade later the clash of civilizations continues to be a touchstone in global politics as writers passionately debate its merits and propose countertheories of their own this collection presents the original seminal essay followed by critical responses published in foreign affairs including the author s reply to his critics and contemporary additions to the enduring question of how to understand world conflict essay from the year 2013 in the subject politics general and theories of international politics grade a webster university language english abstract this critical review examines samuel p huntington s 1993 article titled the clash of civilizations in this article huntington 1993a argues that in the wake of the fall of the berlin wall international relations would no longer be dominated by an ideological conflict as was witnessed during the cold war years between capitalism and communism nor would the next pattern of conflict be dominated by state to state tensions instead as huntington argues the world would witness a clash of civilizations between a western civilization and other major civilizations in particular an islamic civilization and a confusion civilization huntington makes valid arguments in terms of what international relations would not be dominated by however the argument that a clash of civilizations based on cultural differences between the west and other civilizations is a simplistic hypothesis born out of a realist cold war paradigm adem area studies u of tsukuba japan shares the perspective of a non american student of international affairs by asking one question why and how do some discourses attain and others are denied a hegemonic status the aesthetic logical or moral quality of a specific issue has little to do with the status it attains he finds and he begins formulation of hypotheses on what is crucial annotation 2004 book news inc portland or booknews com the classic study of post cold war international relations more relevant than ever in the post 9 11 world with a new foreword by zbigniew brzezinski since its initial publication the clash of civilizations and the remaking of world order has become a classic work of international relations and one of the most influential books ever written about foreign affairs an insightful and powerful analysis of the forces driving global politics it is as indispensable to our understanding of american foreign policy today as the day it was published as former national security adviser zbigniew brzezinski says in his new foreword to the book it has earned a place on the shelf of only about a dozen or so truly enduring works that provide the quintessential insights necessary for a broad understanding of world affairs in our time samuel huntington explains how clashes between civilizations are the greatest threat to world peace but also how an international order based on civilizations is the best safeguard against war events since the publication of the book have proved the wisdom of that analysis the 9 11 attacks and wars in iraq and afghanistan have demonstrated the threat of civilizations but have also shown how vital international cross civilization cooperation is to restoring peace as ideological distinctions among nations have been replaced by cultural differences world politics has been reconfigured across the globe new conflicts and new cooperation have replaced the old order of the cold war era the clash of civilizations and the remaking of world order explains how the population explosion in muslim countries and the economic rise of east asia are changing global politics these developments challenge western dominance promote opposition to supposedly universal western ideals and intensify intercivilization conflict over such issues as nuclear proliferation immigration human rights and democracy the muslim population surge has led to many small wars throughout eurasia and the rise of china could lead to a global war of civilizations huntington offers a strategy for the west to preserve its unique culture and emphasizes the need for people everywhere to learn to coexist in a complex multipolar multivilizational world
