the jornada basin Iter is located in the chihuahuan desert the largest in north america this region of south central new mexico has a history of nearly 100 years as the basis for scientific research this work gives a thorough encompassing review of the tremendous array of observations resulting from experiments conducted in this ecosystem beginning with thorough descriptions of the most salient features of the region the book then reviews a wide range of archived and active data sets on a diversity of biotic and abiotic features it next presents a syntheses of important topics including livestock grazing and remediation efforts a concluding chapter provides a synthesis of the principles that have emerged from this body of work and how these relate to the broader fields of ecology and natural resource management it concludes with recommendations for future research directions the insightful views expressed in this volume should guide management of arid landscapes globally this is the sixth volume in the long term ecological network series

the wild beauty of deserts has always been a source of fascination the world over mankind and deserts 1 the first of three volumes describes their location and geographic variety there are both hot and cold deserts those at high altitude or those at sea level differing in climate but sharing the scarcity of water extreme temperatures and often violent winds according to paleoclimate evidence however deserts have not always been as arid as they are today deserts were a source of inspiration for many spiritual leaders among them moses jesus and muhammad as well as conquerors from alexander the great to genghis khan some avoided these deserts or crossed them as fast as they could others adapted to them and developed vibrant civilizations and cities from ancient almost mythical exploration to modern scientific studies deserts have come to be better known yet still hold great appeal this book traces the history of their knowledge while providing a basis for understanding their features and the tools needed for their protection in an ever changing world the world's deserts are sufficiently large that in theory covering a fraction of their landmass with pv systems could generate many times the current primary global energy supply in three parts this study details the background and concept of vls pv maps out a development path towards the realization of vls pv systems and provides firm recommendations to achieve long term targets this represents the first study to provide a concrete set of answers to the questions that must be addressed in order to secure and exploit the potential for vls pv technology and its global benefits
