this volume continues the tradition of the life span development series presenting overviews of research programs on a variety of developmental topics research and theory in life span development have given increased attention to the issues of constancy and change in human development and to the opportunities for and constraints on plasticity in structure and function across life acknowledging the need for and existence of interconnection between age and developmental periods it focuses on conditions for possibly discontinuous development that emerge at later periods contributors to this series are sensitive to the restrictive consequences of studying only specific age periods such as old age infancy or adolescence each scholar attempts to relate the facts about one age group to similar facts about other age groups and to move toward the study of transformation of characteristics and processes over the life span life span developmental psychology personality and socialization presents papers on personality and socialization the book discusses the history theory and psychological approaches of developmental psychology with focus on socialization and personality development through the life span personality dimensions and theories of socialization and sex role development the text also describes the life span perspective of creativity and cognitive styles continuities in childhood and adult moral development revisited and issues of intergenerational relations as they affect both individual socialization and continuity of culture the interactional analysis of family attachments social learning theory as a framework for the study of adult personality development person perception research and the perception of life span development are also considered the book further tackles the potential usefulness of the life span developmental perspective in education the strategies for enhancing human development over the life span through educational intervention and some ecological implications for the organization of human intervention throughout the life span developmental psychologists sociologists gerontologists and people involved in the study of child development will find the book invaluable the handbook is an impressive collection of research studies and theories provided by knowledgeable contributors on life span development from conception to old age anthropology and aging quarterly the doubling of our average life span since the turn of the 20th century is considered by many scholars to be one of the most important changes in human existence this definitive text is the only volume to fully address through a multidisciplinary perspective the biological cognitive and psychological development that occurs from infancy through old age and how the sociocultural and institutional factors interface with these changes edited by leading research scholars in the field of life span development the volume also includes contributions of specialists in behavioral genetics socioemotional selectivity theory neuroscience ecological models and more it examines the dynamics of close relationships and informal ties among the elderly population child parent attachment relationships as a life span phenomenon developmental tasks across the lifespan continuity and discontinuity in temperament and personality the sociocultural context of cognition across the life span and variability in approaches to social problem solving from early to later life given the number of recent demographic shifts it also explores issues related to fertility life expectancy environmental contexts technology immigration and public policy key features integrates the full life span from infancy through old age in each chapter considers multidisciplinary perspectives that address personal relationships cognitive development and social emotional and physical health across the life span situates life span development in ecological contexts e g socioeconomic neighborhood and immigration status provides a concise but thorough resource for graduate seminars in life span related studies highlights future issues in all areas of life span study the final volume in this significant series this publication mirrors the broad scientific attention given to ideas and issues associated with the life span perspective constancy and change in human development opportunities for and constraints on plasticity in structure and function across life the potential for intervention across the entire life course and thus for the creation of an applied developmental science individual differences diversity in life paths in contexts or the ecology of human development and in changing relations between people and contexts interconnections and discontinuities across age levels and developmental periods and the importance of integrating biological psychological social cultural and historical levels of organization in order to understand human development the entire lifespan in 500 pages what s the greatest challenge in teaching the life span development course covering a lifetime of material in a single term instructors from across the country have clamored for a streamlined text that captures the core concepts of life span development essentials of life span development was carefully designed and constructed to deliver these core concepts along with a strong applications focus reflecting the broad range of interests and backgrounds of students taking this course and as always with john santrock s texts the latest research in the field is incorporated throughout this thorough revision of the highly successful first edition of life span development offers the reader a wide ranging and thought provoking account of human development throughout the lifespan the lifespan approach emphasises that development does not stop when we cease to be adolescents but goes on throughout adulthood and into old age in initial chapters leonie sugarman outlines the issues surrounding the notion of development and how it can be studied including reviews of the work of key theorists erikson levinson and gould she goes on to consider the different ways in which the life course can be construed as a series of age related stages as a cumulative sequence as a series of developmental tasks as a series of key life events and transitions or as a narrative construction which creates a sense of dynamic continuity a final chapter looks at how people cope the resources that are available and the theoretical and practical issues regarding interventions to assist them in the process new to this edition is increased coverage of the topical issue of successful ageing and a new chapter on the increasingly popular narrative approach to lifespan development this edition is also more student friendly with exercises in self reflection that encourage the reader to look at the development of their own lives or those of their current or future clients boxed material highlighting major theories and clarifying concepts is also included this book will be invaluable for students of developmental and occupational psychology and professionals in the fields of health management education and social work although there has been a significant increase in studies of stress and coping processes in recent years researchers have often approached these topics from rather narrow and constrained perspectives furthermore little communication has occurred across disciplines and research directions resulting in the emergence of several relatively isolated literatures an outgrowth of the eleventh biennial west virginia university conference on life span development this volume emphasizes two major themes the importance of taking a life span approach to the study of stress and coping and the development of new and more complete conceptual models of stress and coping processes the first to approach these subjects from a life span perspective this book includes papers by distinguished researchers from each of the major periods of the life span and brings together the cognitive and socioemotional traditions in the study of dealing with pressures the editors hope that this facilitation of communication among researchers with diverse views will help create a broadening and integration of perspectives
