Lesbians in Television and Text After the Millennium explores popular contemporary texts featuring lesbian characters including the I Word queer as folk dykes to watch out for and various pornographic videos. Beirne places these works in the context of political and cultural trends of the post-millennial period and compares them to cultural representations of lesbians from the past taking up such issues as mainstreaming feminine lesbians, the male gaze, female masculinity and sexual practice. This book puts forward provocative readings of texts that have been little explored and offers new insights into the depiction of lesbians in popular culture.

Representing a broad range of ethnic diversity, these in-depth profiles present fascinating accounts of lives and careers, the circumstances under which works were produced and their literary significance. Each profile also includes critical evaluation, a list of the author's principal works with date first published, a list of major critical works and a portrait or photograph where available.

An interdisciplinary project that uses literary analysis along with personal testimony and the applications of gender theory as a means for identifying and exploring LGBTQ stories, the book considers queer yearnings for stories other than those conventionally available that engage and resist norms in literature as well as culture and politics.
