a provocative new book that shows us why we must put american history firmly in a global context from 1492 to today americans like to tell their country s story as if the united states were naturally autonomous and self sufficient with characters ideas and situations unique to itself thomas bender asks us to rethink this exceptionalism and to reconsider the conventional narrative he proposes that america has grappled with circumstances doctrines new developments and events that other nations too have faced and that we can only benefit from recognizing this bender s exciting argument begins with the discovery of the americas at a time when peoples everywhere first felt the transforming effects of oceanic travel and trade he then reconsiders our founding revolution occurring in an age of rebellion on many continents the civil war happening when many countries were redefining their core beliefs about the nature of freedom and the meaning of nationhood and the later imperialism that pitted the united states against germany spain france and england industrialism and urbanization laissez faire economics capitalism and socialism and new technologies are other factors that bender views in the light of global developments a nation among nations is a passionate persuasive book that makes clear what damage is done when we let the old view of america alone in the world falsify our history bender boldly challenges us to think beyond our borders the author of the chalice and the blade proposes a new economics based on care in this impressive work that s well argued insightful and hopeful publishers weekly adam smith s the wealth of nations provided the first explanation of the workings of modern economics but with his focus on the market as the best mechanism for producing and distributing the necessities of life smith s concepts only told part of the story leading to flawed economic models that devalue activities that fall outside of the market s parameters of buying and selling the real wealth of nations riane eisler argues is not merely financial but includes the contributions of people and our natural environment in the real wealth of nations eisler reexamines economics from a larger perspective showing that we must give visibility and value to the essential work of caring for people and the planet eisler proposes a new caring economics that recognizes the full spectrum of economic activities from the life sustaining activities of the household to the life enriching activities of caregivers and communities to the life supporting processes of nature eisler reveals how current economic models are based on a deep seated culture of patriarchy and domination she then shows how human needs would be better served by economic models based on caring most importantly she provides practical proposals for new measures policies rules and practices to bring about a caring economics that fulfills human needs today there are more than twenty complete zodiacs in washington d c each one pointing to an extraordinary mystery david ovason who has studied these astrological devices for ten years now reveals why they have been placed in such abundance in the center of our nation s capital and explains their interconnections his richly illustrated text tells the story of how washington from its foundation in 1791 was linked with the zodiac with the meaning of certain stars and with a hidden cosmological symbolism that he uncovers here for the first time fascinating and thoroughly researched the secret architecture of our nation s capital is an engrossing book that raises provocative questions and offers complex insights into the meanings behind the mysterious symbols in washington research paper postgraduate from the year 2016 in the subject politics international politics topic peace and conflict studies security grade 100 0 arizona state university course crj 554 homeland security language english abstract associations between poverty economic discrimination marginalization and domestic terrorism are now apparent in general society from incidents of domestic terrorism in european nations as well as examples from north america evidence of relationships between the marginalization of minority groups such as muslim youths and the radicalization of beliefs is readily found adopted solutions such as the differing policies endorsed by the european union when integrating immigrants into their population have resulted in both support and criticism understanding the possible factors that may lead some members of the muslim minority to become sympathetic to radicalized ideas or even participating in terroristic events may be the key factor in preventing the ongoing cycle of radicalization seminar paper from the year 2004 in the subject politics topic international organisations grade a 1 international university in germany bruchsal department of sciences and liberal arts language english abstract this paper discusses the role of un peacekeeping missions at the case of the united nations interim force in lebanon unifil by looking into its first ten years of operation the author comes to the conclusion that unifil failed to achieve what it was established for but at the same time points out that inefficient or even ineffective un peacekeeping missions do nothing to undermine the general idea and justifiability of peacekeeping as a measure for inter state or infra state conflict resolution since its formation in 1945 the united nations organization has engaged in numerous peacekeeping missions around the world the first of which was installed in 1956 to resolve the suez crisis some of those missions have been concluded in rather short periods of time others as will become apparent throughout this text have not been concluded successfully even after decades this text will critically discuss on the role and effectiveness of un peacekeeping missions by taking a closer look at the united nations interim force in lebanon unifil which was formed and consequently put into action in 1978 but has proved to be unable to fulfill its mandate until today by analyzing the case of unifil the author will illustrate some of the major problems which impair such peacekeeping missions from being concluded successfully and eventually cause them to last for decades for this purpose the first part of this text will be dedicated to what constitutes an un peacekeeping mission in the second part of this text the author will briefly provide background information on unifil and major events that took place between 1978 and 1988 a period by itself considered long enough by the author to make a qualified judgment about unifil s effectiveness since it was actually supposed to serve as an interim measure until the government of lebanon assumes its full responsibilities in southern lebanon thakur 1987 p 40 bachelor thesis from the year 2015 in the subject politics topic international organisations grade 1 university of vienna course the united nations language english abstract after the second world war europe was demolished over 60 million people were killed industry was destroyed and above all the war induced deep moral degradation while the world struggled to recover from the desolation of the war a new global organization the united nations was established its main purpose was and still is to ensure peace and security within the international community and chiefly to avoid a third world war over the past decades the united nations and its humanitarian interventions have been an interesting and important theme hence more literature is being written on this topic however the effectiveness of the security council at executing international peace through humanitarian interventions seems to be a relatively neglected area therefore this field is the focus of my dissertation the importance of the united nations on the global stage is indeed a popular topic which has undergone much research nevertheless the mismatch of attitudes between the great powers within the security council concerning different humanitarian interventions but with similar origins still has not been sufficiently explored in this dissertation i intend to fill a gap in this area of research which is not only a globally important issue but also a topic that has been under researched the aim of this dissertation is to shed light on challenges that the united nations faces with an emphasis on the ethics of humanitarian intervention in order to find an appropriate answer to this question i will examine two case studies which have been chosen as examples of two different un reactions to a crisis the first case study is nato s military operation against the federal republic of yugoslavia during the kosovo war in 1999 the second is a non combat military operation in syria while considering these two case studies it is also crucial to constantly keep in mind the motives and ideas that lead to the development of the un and what the un is supposed to represent in order to understand this i will first provide a brief history of the un and detail how it is structured and most notably the charter of the un as a source of right possible limitations of this project could be an inability to come to the right conclusions and find a universal solution to these kinds of crises seminar paper from the year 2010 in the subject politics topic international organisations grade 90 Imu munich course introduction to international politics language english abstract the now dissolved league of nations was replaced when the united nations charter came into effect on october 24 in 1945 five permanent member states signed onto the security council china france the soviet union the united kingdom and the united states their collective influence empowered the organization and gave it the legitimacy that the league of nations lacked the un flowered thereafter as it became a catalyst for change in response to humanitarian crises and the propensity of war social services developed around the world thanks to the organization and conflict resolution became a key facet of the intergovernmental agency the united nations in its current state is subject to much scrutiny despite its strength in its work in protecting and serving the needs of humanity and functioning as mediatory power for international conflict resolution the un does falter as a world government as it heralds little hegemony and is ineffective at being a progressive power essay from the year 2011 in the subject politics topic international organisations grade 2 0 berlin school of economics and law language english abstract these days globalization is on everyone s lips technical progress and international trade connect humanity in a way it was never connected before we enjoy the convenience of being able to purchase foreign goods in domestic supermarkets access voices from around the world on the internet and even travel relatively cheaply to faraway regions ourselves but on the other hand we are concerned about domestic companies outsourcing to foreign countries in order to take advantage of foreign law and labor and decisions that are made abroad because we know about the as kofi annan former general secretary of the united nations put it in his nobel prize speech butterfly effect of human activity nobelprize.org the inevitable transnationalization of troubles we face today such as environmental issues like the global warming that affect every single inhabitant of the planet the global financial crisis of 2008 international organized crime groups whose actions cut across national borders and many more can logically be handled best from a transnational or respectively supranational position the keyword is global governance within this paper i will examine the importance of the united nations organization also referred to as united nations uno and un in regard to global governance also called gg later on in order to do so i will first have a closer look on the concept and structure of global governance and leave the analysis of the united nations to the main part of the essay there i will take a look at the un s mission and position in the global community based on concrete examples and finally i will formulate a conclusion which includes the answer of the lead question essay from the year 2010 in the subject politics topic peace and conflict security grade 1 0 university of hamburg institute for peace research and security policy course un peace support operations language english abstract two massive un missions in the largest african country sudan the paper systematically compares the unmis in southern sudan and unamid in darfur the analysis starts at the background of the conflicts that led to both un operations consequently the design of the un mandates are compared as well as the scope of the resources on the ground the paper concludes with the status quo and an analysis of the success and failures of both missions the author was working in southern sudan for 6 months for an international ngo

essay from the year 2005 in the subject politics topic peace and conflict security grade 1 7 university of cape town university of cape town course vorlesung language english abstract ever since the second world war international peace and security have been at the top of the agenda of the international community especially the peacekeeping operations of the united nations un are an important component of today s international peace situation what exactly is peacekeeping and how does it work the efforts of the un to end war their successes or failures have increasingly become subject of discussions by scholars and politicians over the last years this paper focuses on the concept of peacekeeping and how it is put into practice by the un it provides a brief overview of the different concepts that peace studies offer in terms of ending conflicts furthermore the concept of peacekeeping and its development within the un is elaborated exemplifying the implementation of un peacekeeping efforts in mozambique scientific essay from the year 2005 in the subject cultural studies european studies grade a the open university language english abstract when the first european nation states were created during the 18th and 19th century the necessity arose to form new bonds and loyalties within and to the state replacing those in favour of regional rulers the new governments and ruling elites found themselves under the obligation to create a common national identity in order to ensure the future existence of the recently created states one way of doing so was the invention of national traditions and symbols and most prominent among these were national anthems patriotic songs that were supposed to enhance national awareness and unity when looking at europe however and in particular at france and germany it seems like these very anthems had towards the end of the millennium lost considerable significance and had been reduced and limited to almost exclusively international sporting events as far as public consciousness was concerned yet at the beginning of the 21st century we can observe a sudden return of national anthems onto both social and political agendas with new laws being passed and recent debates surrounding them master s thesis from the year 2015 in the subject politics topic international organisations grade no grade yet university of aarhus course international studies language english abstract the unprecedented scope and implications of the 2014 ebola outbreak in west africa has confronted the international community with challenges in responding to the crisis on 19 september 2014 the first ever un emergency health mission united nations mission for ebola emergency response unmeer was established unmeer was set up as a temporary mission to bring together un agencies and capabilities in the response and closely collaborate with governments ngos member states and other relevant actors with the main strategic objective to stop the ebola outbreak this thesis investigates the effects of unmeer on the global ebola response as a whole and assesses whether the establishment of the mission was the right decision to make from the un side in response to the outbreak in this regard the context in which unmeer was established is scrutinized by examining the challenges faced in the outbreak and how these were approached by the international community the analysis is predominantly based on qualitative primary data collected through individual semi structured interviews with respondents who are or have been directly involved in the ebola response as well as on secondary data findings show that unmeer had a positive impact on the response in various respects the exceptional decision from the un side to establish the first ever emergency health mission increased worldwide awareness of the outbreak and catalysed a high level political and financial international engagement in the response furthermore there seems to be a positive attitude towards unmeer s role in bringing together un agencies under a single structure in the response as well as the logistics support provided by unmeer to un agencies and other partners working in the response however due to a lack of presence and a limited number of staff in the affected countries effective collaboration with organizations involved on the ground did not sufficiently materialize findings indicate that overall responders were not satisfied with unmeer s impact on the ground this seems to be rooted in i a a significant gap between responders expectations and perceptions of unmeer due to lack of clear information from unmeer s side on what exactly could be expected of the mission drawing on research findings and lessons learned from the outbreak instead existing resources and systems under the un office for the coordination of of humanitarian affairs ocha should have been reinforced
