This accessible and stimulating account of world history since 1945 provides a framework for making sense of the political and social developments of this period. The underlying theme of the book is the tension between the world conceived as a unity and the world conceived as a diversity. From this perspective the author discusses the impulse towards globalization in the aftermath of the second world war, the divisions inherent in the cold war and the shifting allegiances and conflicts in the decades which followed. He ends with an assessment of our position with regard to world unity and disunity as the millennium approaches.

The complete history of global change from 1945 to the present day. The world since 1945 has witnessed fundamental changes notably the increasing influence of the west particularly the USA in a variety of spheres the emergence and collapse of the USSR the end of colonial empire in Asia and Africa and the escalation of wars and other conflicts in the third world. In this incisive survey the author examines the key events without ever neglecting the underlying trends. He explores the rapid changes in the middle east the end of apartheid in South Africa and the aims of American foreign policy. He concludes with a new epilogue in which he examines the direction of post 1945 history as the world enters the twenty first century.

Europe since 1945 is an exciting new survey of the history of Europe since the end of world war two. In the second half of the twentieth century Europe has known a period of peace and stability unprecedented in its history and virtually unparalleled in the rest of the world. Europe explains the reasons for this state of affairs. Thought provoking and wide ranging this book discusses political economic social and cultural change in modern Europe covering both western and eastern Europe comprehensively and featuring extensive analysis of the 1990s. This book includes examination of the cold war war at the edges Northern Ireland and Yugoslavia the European Union the issues of nationalism the end of the dictatorships economic prosperity the EEC and the Euro.

the life and chemical sciences are in the midst of a period of rapid and revolutionary transformation that will undoubtedly bring societal benefits but also have potentially malign applications notably in the development of chemical weapons such concerns are exacerbated by the unstable international security environment and the changing nature of armed conflict which could fuel a desire by certain states to retain and use existing chemical weapons as well as increase state interest in creating new weapons whilst a broader range of actors may seek to employ diverse toxic chemicals as improvised weapons stark indications of the multi faceted dangers we face can be seen in the chemical weapons attacks against civilians and combatants in iraq and syria and also in more targeted chemical assassination operations in malaysia and the uk using a multi disciplinary approach and drawing upon an international group of experts this book analyses current and likely near future advances in relevant science and technology assessing the risks of their misuse the book examines the current capabilities limitations and failures of the existing international arms control and disarmament architecture notably the chemical weapons convention in preventing the development and use of chemical weapons through the employment of a novel holistic arms control methodology the authors also look beyond the bounds of such treaties to explore the full range of international law international agreements and regulatory mechanisms potentially applicable to weapons employing toxic chemical agents in order to develop recommendations for more effective routes to combat their proliferation and misuse a particular emphasis is given to the roles that chemical and life scientists health professionals and wider informed activist civil society can play in protecting the prohibition against poison and chemical weapons and in working with states to build effective and responsive measures to ensure that the rapid scientific and technological advances are safeguarded from hostile use and are instead employed for the benefit of us all
