albert einstein once wrote the supreme task of the physicist is to arrive at those universal laws from which the cosmos can be built up by pure deduction remarkably in this book we arrive at those universal axioms from which universal science can be built up by pure deduction within the prevailing paradigm of science the mathematical philosophy of nature we show it is not possible to unify science to overcome this limitation we introduce a new more general paradigm since the new paradigm is a generalisation of the mathematical philosophy of nature we are able to retain the mathematical knowledge built up within the prevailing paradigm within the new paradigm we introduce four empirical universal axioms from which we deduce that it is not possible to mathematically unify the two fundamental theories of physics quantum theory and general relativity instead from the universal axioms we logically deduce the first symmetry of nature the first invariance of nature the universal arrow of time the universal laws of nature and the three universal dynamic theories of nature quantum theory general relativity and universal evolution the first symmetry of nature and first invariance of nature arise from the constancy of the universal laws of nature not only being a symmetry but a unifying symmetry the biological view of universal evolution provides a new theory of biological evolution that replaces what we show is the deficient neo darwinian synthesis in a similar way theories of evolution in all the sciences are based on their respective views of universal evolution from the universal axioms we deduce the universal features of nature thereby unifying physics chemistry biology psychology sociology economics and all of science this book is written for scientifically inclined general readers teachers students scientists philosophers physicists chemists biologists psychologists sociologists and economists our universe is perfectly balanced by natural and spiritual laws these laws maintain an order we have a tendency to take for granted we can consciously learn these laws if we learn these laws we can also learn to live in alignment with them and have order in our lives we live on a dualistic and physical planet because of this we often find ourselves faced with seeming paradoxes caught in an endless loop of contradictions however it is important to remember what we sow in consciousness we reap if we turn on a tape recorder and record our voice when we play it back what we hear will be our own voice saying exactly what we said if we plant a spinach seed spinach will grow not a cauliflower the same is true with our words and thoughts what we think and say becomes our reality we can depend on these laws and use them or we can remain ignorant and confused and pretend our life is happening to us randomly we can only pretend not to be in control scientists have worked to prove the laws of physics the laws affecting our physical universe without considering spiritual law or the fact that we are a self evolving species and that our thoughts control our lives and our evolution they work to convince us that we live in a world where everything takes place in relationship to deterministic laws that unfold in linear time and are unresponsive to human thoughts or affairs scientists until they developed the chaos theory have said that chance events only produce patterns that are random and to see meaning in such patterns is as pointless as looking for messages in the interference that we call snow which at certain times appears on a television screen to believe that certain chance events are a manifestation of some underlying pattern of nature or are the result of a causal connecting principle would be utter nonsense to most scientists scientists are however beginning to suspect that even chaos has a pattern
