these poems run the gamut between human striving and suffering ultimately imbued with a tenacious hope this singular memoir stunned me with a poet s precision rachel eliza griffiths renders two interwoven tragedies few others could have lived through much less written about with such clear eyed candor mary karr new york times bestselling author of the liars club on september 24 2021 rachel eliza griffiths married her husband the novelist salman rushdie on the same day hundreds of miles away griffiths closest friend and chosen sister the poet kamilah aisha moon who was expected to speak at the wedding died suddenly eleven months later as griffiths attempted to piece together her life as a newlywed with heartbreak in one hand and immense love in the other a brutal attack nearly killed her husband as trauma compounded trauma griffiths realized that in order to survive her grief she would need to mourn not only her friend but the woman she had been on her wedding day a woman who had also died that day in the process of rebuilding a self griffiths chronicles her friendship with moon the seventeen years since their meeting at sarah lawrence college together they embraced their literary foremothers lucille clifton toni morrison alice walker to name a few and fought to embrace themselves as poets artists and black women alongside this unbreakable bond griffiths weaves the story of her relationship with rushdie of the challenges they have faced and the unshakeable devotion that endures in the flower bearers griffiths inscribes the trajectories of two transformational relationships with grace and honesty chronicling the beauty and pain that comes with opening oneself fully to love the cross section of poets with varying poetics and styles gathered here is only one of the many admirable achievements of this volume claudia rankine in the new york times the golden shovel anthology celebrates the life and work of poet and civil rights icon gwendolyn brooks through a dynamic new poetic form the golden shovel created by national book award winner terrance hayes an array of writers including winners of the pulitzer prize the t s eliot prize and the national book award as well as a couple of national poets laureate have written poems for this exciting new anthology rita dove billy collins danez smith nikki giovanni sharon olds tracy k smith mark doty sharon draper richard powers and julia glass are just a few of the contributing poets this second edition includes golden shovel poems by two winners and six runners up from an international student poetry competition judged by nora brooks blakely gwendolyn brooks s daughter the poems by these eight talented high school students add to ms brooks s legacy and contribute to the depth and breadth of this anthology
