immigration and deportation systems of both Japan and Austria provides the basis for qualitative and quantitative comparisons. The first section explains the basic methodology, the idea of comparative public law and respective international regimes that influence the alien law in either or both countries. In the second part, the immigration system of both Austria and Japan are explained in considerable detail, introducing only high profile case law though including new legislation introduced in most recent years. The system of residence titles in both countries is discussed with reference to particular groups of immigrants such as family members of already residing foreign nationals, work-related immigration, short-term and long-term visitors. An overview of the respective organization of the immigration control administration is provided. Before the last chapter of part two compares the immigration laws of both countries, the quantitative comparison employs, extends and adjusts the quantitative index for the integration of immigrants by H. Waldrauch, associated also with the work of Prof. U. Davey. Part three extensively discusses the system of termination of stay in both countries. This also includes the newly introduced 2004 revocation of residence titles (zairyū shikaku no torikeshi) and the departure order (shukkoku meirei) on the Japanese side and the new system of residence bans (aufenthaltsverbote) etc. on the Austrian side. 2005. this volume explores the digitization, privatization and spatial displacement of border security and the effects these have on political accountability and migrant rights. The governance of security and migration is unfolding in new political spaces: cooperation and competition among immigration officials, border guards, transnational security corporations, IT companies, local police and international organizations has decoupled migration governance from national political structures. The chapters in the volume examine how these dynamics affect the deployment and constraint of sovereign power in the United States, Canada, the United Kingdom and the EU. Contributors trace this process from the disciplinary perspectives of law, political science, sociology, criminology and geography. Part I of the book explores the reconfiguration of security and migration governance through historical processes of privatization, digitization and the rescaling of border control technologies to local and global spaces. Part II explores how migrant rights actors have responded by rescaling resistance to global
