tens of thousands of western teachers many of whom would not be considered teachers elsewhere are employed to teach English in public and private education in China little has previously been known except anecdotally about their experiences about the effect they have on education in the context or on students' perceptions of the west that result from this contact. This book is an ethnographic study of westerners' lived experiences teaching English in Shanghai, China. It is based on three years of groundbreaking research into the pre-service training, classroom practices, personal identities and motives, and local socially constructed roles of a group of backpacker teachers from the UK, the USA, and Canada. It is a study that goes beyond the classroom, addressing broader questions about the sociology and politics of transnational education and China's evolving relationship with the outside world.
