literary praxis a conversational inquiry into the teaching of literature explores the teaching of literature in secondary schools it does this from the vantage point of educators in a range of settings around the world as they engage in dialogue with one another in order to capture the nature of their professional commitment the knowledge they bring to their work as literature teachers and the challenges of their professional practice as they interact with their students the core of the book comprises accounts of their day to day teaching by dutch and australian educators these teachers do more than capture the immediacy of the here and now of their classrooms they attempt to understand those classrooms relationally exploring the ways in which their professional practice is mediated by government policies national literary traditions and existing traditions of curriculum and pedagogy they thereby enact a form of literary praxis that grapples with major ideological issues most notably the impact of standards based reforms on their work educators from other countries then comment on the cases written by the dutch and australian teachers thus taking the concept of praxis to a new level as part of a comparative inquiry that acknowledges the richly specific character of the cases and resists viewing teaching around the world as though it lends itself unproblematically to the same standards of measurement as in the fetish made of pisa they step back from a judgmental stance and try to understand what it means to teach literature in other educational settings than their own the essays in this collection show the complexities of literature teaching as a form of professional praxis exploring the intensely reflexive learning in which teachers engage as they induct their students into reading literary texts and reflect on the socio cultural contexts of their work amidst alternative facts and post truth politics news journalism is more important and complex than ever this book examines journalism s evolution within digital media s ecosystem where lies often spread faster than truth and consumers expect conversations not lectures tthe 2016 u s presidential election delivered a stunning result but the news media s breathless coverage of it was no surprise news networks turned debates into primetime entertainment reporters spent more time covering poll results than public policy issues and the cozy relationship between journalists and political insiders helped ensure intrigue and ratings even as it eroded journalism s role as democracy s fourth estate against this sobering backdrop a broadcast news veteran and a millennial newshound consider how journalism can regain the public s trust by learning from pioneers both within and beyond the profession connecting the dots between faux news fake news and real news coauthors madison and dejarnette provide an unflinching analysis of where mainstream journalism went wrong and what the next generation of reporters can do to make it right the significance of donald trump s presidency is not lost on the authors but reimagining journalism in a post truth world is not a post mortem of the 2016 presidential election nor is it a how to guide for reporting on trump s white house instead this accessible and engaging book offers a broader perspective on contemporary journalism pairing lively anecdotes with insightful analysis of long term trends and challenges drawing on their expertise in media innovation and entrepreneurship the authors explore how comedians like john oliver trevor noah and samantha bee are breaking and reshaping the rules of political journalism how legacy media outlets like the boston globe the washington post and the new york times are retooling for the digital age and how newcomers like vice hearcken and de correspondent are innovating new models for reporting and storytelling anyone seeking to make sense of modern journalism and its intersections with democracy will want to read this book
