shrimp is bangladesh's main agricultural export and makes a substantial contribution to the economy of southern bangladesh but the sector has a checkered history bangladesh's shrimp production and exports have been in steady decline since peaking in the early 2010 s most shrimp exports from bangladesh are used by the food service and niche ethnic markets in europe the complex nature of shrimp supply chains in bangladesh comprised of hundreds of thousands of small polyculture farms and tens of thousands of small traders make it difficult to implement traceability and certification initiatives now a prerequisite for entry into most supermarket supply chains this report provides an overview of the sector and the challenges it faces drawing on secondary and survey data reviews of government reports and academic literature we also report the findings of an expert consultation conducted to identify key constraints and potential solutions the consensus among industry stakeholders who were part of the expert consultations is that issues related to the supply and quality of shrimp seed and pond management practices represent some of the most pressing yet relatively simple to solve challenges currently faced by the sector this would serve as the foundation for establishing traceability and certification processes previous interventions aimed at upgrading production practices such as promoting stocking of disease free shrimp seed and facilitating disintermediation and transparency in the supply chain such as by establishing producer groups shrimp collection centers and contracts with processors have met with limited success we outline potential interventions and partners that might offer scalable solutions enabling small shrimp farmers to access global markets this report assesses bangladesh s phase iii agricultural mechanization support program 2020 2024 examining the distribution impacts and governance of subsidies for agricultural machines particularly combine harvesters chs we analyze program effectiveness and identify critical implementation gaps using mixed methods research combining administrative data analysis a representative survey of 979 machinery service providers msps including 400 ch msps sampled across 10 districts representing bangladesh s major agroecological zones and mechanization intensity panel data from over 2 000 nationally representative boro rice producing households and 128 qualitative interviews to analyze program effectiveness and pinpoint critical implementation gaps this book examines the socio political histories religio political agendas and politico militant and for some non violent strategies of institutions of political islam in bangladesh focusing on jammat e islami hefazet e islam jammatul mujahedeen bangladesh jmb ansar al islam neo jammatul mujahedeen bangladesh neo jmb tablighi jamaat and islami andolon bangladesh it shows how these groups are key actors in the securitization of the postcolonial socio cultural economic and political histories and future of bangladesh the volume illustrates the complex ways in which every day lived experiences of peoples of bangladesh and securitized political and cultural pathways of state governance have shaped and impacted the histories and activities of these groups and the strategies and agendas of these groups to gain political and socio religious legitimacy within and sometimes beyond the secularized cultural landscapes of bangladesh moreover the book argues that even though these islamist groups bear the same agenda of transforming bangladesh into an islamic state their strategies are different and unique it also discusses the connections of some of these groups to other transnational institutions of political islam and extremist groups such as al qaeda and the islamic state is this book will be a major intervention in the field of politics religion and south asian studies the jamaat question in bangladesh addresses the complex intersection of global politics and local dynamics in bangladesh particularly in relation to bangladesh jamaat e islami jamaat with multidisciplinary insights and perspectives the contributors to this volume provide an objective socio historical analysis of islam politics and society in bangladesh separating fact from fiction they attempt to uncover the truth about jamaat the largest islam based political party in the country suppressed and marginalized by the bal regime jamaat remains active in the social landscape of bangladesh what makes jamaat so resilient against all odds can it peacefully coexist with rival political parties in a polarized nation such as bangladesh this book seeks to answer these crucial questions an essential read for those interested in bangladeshi politics and political islam recently in many low and middle income countries a rise in income urbanization and a change in lifestyles have resulted in a shift in dietary patterns from mainly staple crops such as rice wheat and maize towards a diet characterized by higher intake of meat sugar and processed foods this so called nutrition transition has led to a situation in many countries that is referred to as the double burden of malnutrition which is defined as the simultaneous observation of both undernutrition and overweight obesity and diet related non communicable diseases the change in diets and in particular the worldwide rise in the consumption of animal protein also has had a strong negative impact on the environment including loss in biodiversity water resource depletion deforestation and an increase in greenhouse gas ghg emissions there is consensus that the transformation towards sustainable healthy diets is regarded as a key strategy to improve human nutrition and health combat poverty and promote environmental sustainability sustainable healthy diets are defined by the food and agriculture organization of the united nations fao as a dietary pattern that promotes all dimensions of individuals health and wellbeing has low environmental pressure and impact is accessible affordable safe and equitable and is culturally acceptable several studies show that adoption of diets which are characterized by low meat content or are completely plant based result in improved health outcomes but might lead to an increase in cropland freshwater and fertilizer use in several low income countries this suggests that there might be unintended consequences and trade offs that need to be addressed by decisionmakers when promoting the uptake of healthy diets the aim of this study is to assess the potential trade offs between socio economic health and environmental impacts associated with a transition towards healthier diets in bangladesh for the period 2022 2040 the forward looking approach which compares two healthy diet scenarios with a business as usual future in which the diets follow a pattern consistent with the widely observed nutrition transition will be useful to inform long run national strategies such as vision 2041 bangladesh s long run plan to achieve high income status and eradicate poverty by 2041 as well as the national food system transformation pathway that has been developed with support from the 2021 united nations food systems summit unfss initiative since its independence in 1971 bangladesh has made remarkable progress in terms of reducing poverty levels achieving high levels of economic growth over a sustained period of time and meeting its millennium development goals mdg targets set by the united nations with some justification bangladesh is considered an international development success story and the country appears to be well on track to meet its policy target of becoming a middle income country by 2021 the same year the country will celebrate 50 years of independence this book explores the central issue of bangladeshi politics the weakness of governance the coexistence of a poor governance track record and a relatively strong socioeconomic performance makes bangladesh an intriguing case which throws up exciting and relevant conceptual and policy challenges structured in four sections political settlement elites and deep structures democracy citizenship and values civil society local context and political change informality and accountability the book identifies and engages with these challenges chapters by experts in the field share a number of conceptual and epistemological principles and offer a combination of theoretical and empirical insights and cover a good range of contemporary issues and debate employing a structurally determinist perspective this book explains politics and society in bangladesh from a novel perspective academics in the field of governance and politics in developing countries with a focus on south asia and bangladesh will welcome its publication this book investigates how bangladesh formulates its countering violent extremism cve policy as a norm receiving country norm producing institutions and countries such as the united nations the european union the uk australia and saudi arabia have diffused cve norms in numerous countries through various mechanisms consequently countries such as bangladesh nigeria greece kenya and many others who initiated cve policy late became norm receivers despite widespread adoption and criticism of cve policies globally bangladesh has shifted from traditional counterterrorism to cve this book provides the first comprehensive account of cve policy formulation in bangladesh through policy actor interviews it offers a public policy perspective integrating three theoretical dimensions drivers of public policy ideology learning and policy diffusion and localisation through interviews with cve policymakers the book navigates policy actors understanding of effective cve practices contributing factors and the diffusion and localisation of external policies and norms in bangladesh this book will be of interest to students of cve counterterrorism south asian politics and international relations this book identifies and investigates the determinants that influence investment decision making for conducting foreign direct investment fdi in bangladesh s power sector this book is organized around six core themes these are bangladesh s vision to become a middle income country by 2021 and have universal power for all an overview of the benefits and costs of fdi from a host nation s perspective an outlook of bangladesh s power sector starting from the years 1994 2008 through 2011 2015 to 2016 2020 and beyond the key factors that encourage foreign investors to conduct fdi in the bangladeshi power sector subsumed under four broad categories of investment prospects namely regulatory economic and financial political and social the key barriers that deter fdi in the bangladeshi power sector and policy implications for long term investment sustainability in the power sector the main arguments posited in this book are regulatory aspects are the most important for firms when conducting fdi in the power sector land acquisition is a perennial problem that continues to hamper the development of large scale power projects there is a need for a transparent and competitive selection process to improve transparency and accountability in private power procurement and more exploration of onshore and offshore gas fields with the extension of gas transmission networks be enhanced that ensure a regional balance of primary energy supply gas for setting up additional gas based power plants in the country bachelor thesis from the year 2016 in the subject politics general and theories of international politics grade 1 7 university of passau language english abstract giving credence to muhammad yunus microcredits can be the panacea to put poverty to the museum haryanti 2010 2 the native bangladeshi and founder of grameen bank the biggest microfinance institute mfi in the world is regarded by the advocates of microcredits as the symbol for their success in 2006 he won the nobel peace prize for pioneering efforts to provide financial services to the poorest of the poor kota june 2006 honouring the father of microfinance has even increased the promising reporting by the media on mostly individual success stories the apparently positive and widely cited effects of microcredits are job creation and raising incomes in the poorest communities helping to empower especially women and generally setting off a bottom up social and economic development process however critical voices fault that the adoption of the microfinance approach by many ngos led to a shift away from their original social mission sacrificing it to commercialization by the example of bangladesh the centre of microfinance this paper aims to provide a neo gramscian critique of microcredits as an instrument of development aid being a marxist oriented theory neo gramscianism would highly oppose the popular statement that microcredits can be an appropriate means to sustainably empowering the poor the central argument of this critique will therefore be that providing the poor with microcredits and making them bankable nurtures asymmetrical power relations and neoliberalism which finally empowers the western dominated capitalist system not the poor
