In the writing of Where, Charles Lesh examines how graffiti writers in Boston remake various spaces within and across the city. The spaces readers will encounter in this book are not just meaningful venues of writing but also outcomes of writing itself: social spaces not just where writing happens but created because writing happens. Lesh contends that these graffiti spaces reinvent the writing landscape of the city and its public relationship with writing. Each chapter introduces readers to different writing spaces: from bold and broadly visible spots along the highway to bridge underpasses seldom seen by non-writers from inconspicuous notebooks writers call bibles to freight yards and model trains from abandoned factories to benches where writers view trains. Between each chapter, readers will find community interludes: responses to the preceding chapters from some of the graffiti writers who worked on this project by working closely with writers engaged in the production of these spaces as well as drawing on work invested in questions of geography, publics, and writing. Lesh identifies new models of community engagement and articulates a framework for the spatiality of the public work of writing and writing studies.

Interviews with the late novelist share his views on writing, literary fame, his major works, criticism, and his life and career.

From the New York Times bestselling author of How to Be a Woman and Moranthology comes a collection of Caitlin Moran's award-winning London Times columns that takes a clever, hilarious look at celebrities, society, and the wacky world we live in today, including three major new pieces exclusive to this book. When Caitlin Moran sat down to choose her favorite pieces for her new book, she realized that they all shared a common theme: the same old problems and the same old ass hats. Then she thought of the word Moranifesto, and she knew what she had to do: introducing every piece and weaving her writing together into a brilliant, seamless narrative just as she did in Moranthology.

caitlin combines the best of her recent columns with lots of new writing unique to this book as she offers a characteristically fun and witty look at the news celebrity culture and society featuring strong and important pieces on poverty the media and class moranifesto also focuses on how socially engaged we've become as a society and of course caitlin is never afraid to address the big issues such as benedict cumberbatch and duffel coats who else but caitlin moran a true modern renaissance woman could deal with topics as pressing and diverse as the beauty of musicals affordable housing daft punk and why the internet is like a drunken toddler covering everything from hillary clinton to utis caitlin's manifesto is an engaging and mischievous rallying call for our times brilliantly written this festive instalment of angela's life is as funny and enjoyable as ever closer
