anthropologists training to do fieldwork in far off unfamiliar places prepare for significant challenges with regard to language customs and other cultural differences however like other travelers to unknown places they are often unprepared to deal with the most basic and necessary requirement food although there are many books on the anthropology of food adventures in eating is the first intended to prepare students for the uncomfortable dining situations they may encounter over the course of their careers whether sago grubs jungle rats termites or the pungent durian fruit are on the table participating in the act of sharing food can establish relationships vital to anthropologists research practices and knowledge of their host cultures using their own experiences with unfamiliar and sometimes unappealing food practices and customs the contributors explore such eating moments and how these moments can produce new understandings of culture and the meaning of food beyond the immediate experience of eating it they also address how personal eating experiences and culinary dilemmas can shape the data and methodologies of the discipline the main readership of adventures in eating will be students in anthropology and other scholars but the explosion of food media gives the book additional appeal for fans of no reservations and bizarre foods on the travel channel conflict heritage and world making in the chaco documents and interprets the physical remains and afterlives of the chaco war 1932 35 known as south america s first modern armed conflict in what is now present day paraguay it focuses not only on archaeological remains as conventionally understood but takes an ontological approach to heterogeneous assemblages of objects texts practices and landscapes shaped by industrial war and people s past and present engagements with them these assemblages could be understood to constitute a dark heritage the debris of a failed modernity yet it is clear that they are not simply dead memorials to this bloody war but have been and continue to be active in making unmaking and remaking worlds both for the participants and spectators of the war itself as well as those who continue to occupy and live amongst the vast accretions of war material which persist in the present
