medical education theory and practice is a new text linking the theory and the practice for graduate students and educators who want to go beyond the basics the scholarship of medical education is above all a practice but one that has a strong theoretical foundation neither theory nor practice stand still and both are grounded in research the novelty of this book lies in its interweaving of practice theory innovation and research the book starts with a theorised contemporary overview of the field next it explores the theoretical foundations of medical education in depth the remainder of the book reviews a whole a range of educational contexts processes and outcomes this work has been edited by a distinguished international team of medical educationalists and written by equally accomplished authors from across the globe representing a spectrum of disciplines this will be an invaluable text for all masters students in health professions education as well as phd students and education researchers wanting a background to the discipline educators and medical students will also find it a very useful resource written by key figures in medical educational research combined with a strong editorial influence from the international editorial team the text has a strong evidence based approach that is fully cognisant of research methodology issues the book provides a scholarly explanation on the topic rather than aiming to say the last word written throughout in a clear and comprehensible style the content is extensively referenced with additional suggestions for further reading in its examination of two of plato s key works soul world and idea an interpretation of plato s republic and phaedo reveals the key role that that images and our capacity for image making play in the relationship among soul world and idea this bookbegins and ends with a reading of the republic daniel sherman turns midway to the phaedo to further analyze the nature of the soul and its relation to the nature of the ideas then returns to apply the conclusions to the rest of the republic sherman s focus is on the ontological and epistemological argument including attention to the dramatic detail he argues that the ontology of the ideas in the republic and the phaedo is inseparable from the ontology of human being that is from the structure and life of the soul on this interpretation the ideas are seen as indeed objective but as in a sense also a product of a permanent dialectical relationship the ideas though something more than concepts do not have any real independent existence outside of this human dialectical triad of world soul and idea the stability of the ideas need not be grounded in a static otherworldliness and the condition of meaning is not temporally prior to human existence in general the result is a new interpretation concerning the realm of the ideas the immortality of the soul and the lived in world of their interaction in the production of interpretive images sherman argues that the platonic soul is immortal and the ideas eternal wholly and solely in human dialogical activity the rest is muthologia and that the world of our experience is a product of an ongoing act of
