in this book victor preller examines the logical status of religious language in the light of recent developments in american analytic philosophy the problem inherent in religious language is presented in terms of the referential status of the word god the author argues that the significance of any referential term is dependent upon the ability of that term to play a significant role within a unified conceptual system the problem is shown to transcend the epistemological dogmas of positivism and conceptual empiricism and to be inherent in any intelligible epistemology including that of thomas aquinas whose theological treatises serve as a model of religious language for the thesis of this book according to professor preller divine science aquinas term for what we now call natural theology results from a reflection upon the limitations encountered by the intellect in its attempt to render intelligible the objects of human experience in the science of god aquinas term for that mode of knowing engendered by faith the unknown meta empirical referent of divine science becomes the object of the human intellect while this study develops out of the discussions inaugurated by flew and mcintyre in new essays in philosophical theology it rejects the excessively empirical approach of most other studies in that tradition it applies post positivistic analysis to specifically catholic theological language but it obviously applies to the theological language involved in any form of theism

aid to developing countries started well before world war ii but was undertaken as an ad hoc activity or was delivered by private organizations this changed after the war in his inaugural address in 1949 the american president harry truman announced a bold new programme for making the benefits of our scientific advances and industrial progress available for the improvement and growth of underdeveloped nations the so called point iv plan at that time it was thought that this support would be needed only for a limited number of years comparable to the marshall plan assistance to europe but reality proved to be different providing aid was a very long term affair since the fifties the aid provided has changed at different occasions in the beginning aid concentrated on constructing infrastructure such as roads railways dams and harbours in order to promote industrial development in the sixties aid to agriculture was added and in the seventies aid to social sectors basic needs was also provided the eighties brought worldwide debt problems major donors applied structural adjustment policies some called this the lost decade década perdida the nineties saw the arrival of the first environmental considerations and asked for attention for the role of women and good governance the form of aid changed from projects to programmes and budget support describing the different aid forms of the last 65 years and analysing why aid changed from time to time are the subjects of this book professionals and students in the area of international cooperation will benefit from studying this history as at this moment old concepts are reappearing or applied by new donors like china is the pendulum really swinging back as louis emmerij at one point suggested
