Love Before Covid is the story of writer and English teacher Joe Pastorius. Joe is a jazz fan, a Leicester-based poet, and a victim of horrendous sexual and emotional abuse at the hands of his mother.

Over the course of her long career, Eve Kosofsky Sedgwick became one of the most important voices in queer theory, and her calls for reparative criticism and reading practices grounded in affect and performance have transformed understandings of affect, intimacy, politics, and identity. With marked tenderness, the contributors to Reading Sedgwick reflect on Sedgwick's many critical inventions from her elucidation of poetry's close relation to criticism and development of new versions of queer performativity to highlighting the power of writing to engender new forms of life. As the essays in Reading Sedgwick demonstrate, Sedgwick's work is not only an ongoing vital force in queer theory and affect theory; it can help us build a more positive world in the midst of the bleak contemporary moment.

Eve Prince is done with college, with her mom, with guys, and with her dream of fashion design. But when her best friend goes missing, Eve must gather together the broken threads of her life in order to search for her. When Eve's grandmother Boop, a retiree dripping with southern charm, finds out about the trip, she's desperate to see her sister and also hoping to alleviate Eve's growing depression. Hijacking her granddaughter's road trip, Boop knows from experience that healing Eve will require more than flirting lessons and a garlic festival makeover. Nevertheless, Boop is frustrated when her feeble efforts yield the same failure that her sulfur-laced sip from the fountain of youth wrought on her age. She knows that sharing the secret that's haunted her for sixty years might be the one thing that will lessen Eve's growing depression, but she also fears that if she reveals it, she'll lose her family and her own hard-won happiness. Boop and Eve's journey through the heart of Dixie is an unforgettable love story between a grandmother and her granddaughter.
