jung's explanation of the religious tendency of the psyche addresses many sides of the contemporary debate on religion and the role that it has in individual and social life. This book discusses the emergence of a new mythic consciousness and details ways in which this consciousness supersedes traditional concepts of religion to provide a spirituality of more universal inclusion. On behalf of the mystical fool, it examines Jung's critique of traditional Western religion, demonstrating the negative consequences of religious and political collective unconsciousness and their consequent social irresponsibility in today's culture. The book concludes by suggesting that a new religiosity and spirituality is currently emerging in the West, based on the individual's access to the sense of ultimacy residual in the psyche and seeking expression in a myth of a much wider compass. This book will be of interest to scholars and students at all levels who are engaged in the expanding field of Jungian studies. It will also be key reading for anyone interested in the theoretical and therapeutic connections between the psyche and religious experience.

Social movements haven't been a popular topic with researchers making up less than 3 per cent of all studies in history, political science, sociology and anthropology sponsored by the Indian Council of Social Science Research (ICSSR) up to the mid-nineties. The research has had an institutional or government skew in that the study of the politics of the masses has been largely ignored. There are reasons of history behind this, but what has been consistently lost sight of is the fact that in the absence of an understanding of the politics of the masses, the functioning of the state can be understood only partially. This volume is a revised and enlarged edition of the author's review of literature on social movements in India, first commissioned by the ICSSR after careful deliberation on the ideal definition of a social movement. The author adopts for this volume the loose idea of non-institutionalised collective political action striving for social and political change on the basis of the socio-economic characteristics of participants and the issues involved. This volume makes a nine-fold classification of social movements: peasant movements, tribal movements dalit movements backward caste movements women s movements working class movements students movements middle class movements and human rights and environmental movements added in this edition this book is important as much for filling a scholarly lacuna in social science studies as for proposing and executing an orderly classification of literature on social movements in modern india the original shorter monograph received an enthusiastic response from both scholars and laypersons and this volume is likely to be welcomed similarly
