ethnic minorities often had and still have to face in their every day lives in canada are disabled from canadian history and their modern representation when associations are made to the topic of slavery most people do not know that slavery existed in canada because slave trade mostly took place in the larger atlantic ocean and america therefore it was suppressed from canadian s history even if it is very much a part of it the novel soucouyant by david chariandy published in 2007 picks out main topics as forgetting and remembering trauma dislocation family but also racism as a central theme however i want to emphasize on all these themes in the subsequent chapters whereas the topic of family will be on the fringes also i would like to present how racism in canada developed and how a traumatic event is processed in one s mind for the illustration of these subjects i will use the novel soucouyant as well as the hanging of angélique but will mostly concentrate on soucouyant because it allows a great deal of interpretation in the context of themes as racism memory and trauma in these eight masterful stories austin clarke has caught the sorrowful and sometimes sweet longing for a home in the heart that torments the dislocated in any big city these are private lives and intimate pains made public because the city itself is in exuberant upheaval but the rawness of the moment is always redeemed by the elegance of clarke s prose and the innate sympathy of his eye

University of Constance Language English Abstract
The aim of the following paper is an analysis of selected poems of Claire Harris and Olive Senior in regard of the theme that connects the poetic work of these two women writers. Identity at first glance it might come as quite a surprise to some readers that the literary artist Harris and Senior share a connection in their poetical exploration of themes. However, after having a short glance, a commonality between them will become apparent due to the subject. The essay is informed by concepts of feminism, post-colonialism, and cultural studies in order to depict the different ways in which identity is addressed in their work. Reading Chinese Transnationalisms responds to the growing interest in transnational cultural studies by examining Chinese transnationalism from a variety of perspectives. In interrogating social practices and literary and filmic texts which frequently cross national borders in imagining Chineseness, the contributors to this volume also challenge received notions of Chinese transnationalism, opening up new perspectives on the topic. The structure of the book is clearly subdivided into sections on society, literature, and films for quick reference, and each essay is written in accessible language without sacrificing intellectual rigor and critical relevance. The international list of contributors and the wide-ranging subjects they address make Reading Chinese Transnationalisms a unique work in its field. This volume will appeal to all with an interest in Chinese transnationalism and in particular those who come from a variety of disciplinary backgrounds in the humanities and social science
