technological changes have often produced important social changes that translate into spatial and planning practice whereas the intelligent city is one of the unavoidable and even dominant concepts digital uses can influence urban planning in four different directions these scenarios are represented by a compass composed of a horizontal axis opposing institutional and non institutional actors and a second axis with open and closed opposition jerusalem is not just another city that illustrates the conflict between interests of professional planners and competing political perspectives it is the holy city with a history of some 3 000 years moreover numerous layers of historical remains have importance for intense and competitive religious and national interests israelis claim it as the capital of their country and palestinians want it or part of it as the capital of their not yet created state jerusalem is also a place where more than 700 000 people live and the center of a metropolitan area with more than twice that number along with religious and national interests there are the customary conflicts between what various groups property developers politicians professional planners neighborhood residents and environmental activists want to do with the land politics and planning in the holy city describes and analyzes the tensions between politics and planning the authors tackle the economic social and political contexts that shape conflicts such problems include deciding what should be called jerusalem and difficulties surrounding the construction of a defense barrier to protect israelis from palestinian terrorists in the framework of a multicultural city where 30 to 40 percent of its residents are palestinians there is dissent over locating rail lines to the city as some interests want them here there or nowhere and over building a light rail line within a city already crowded and beset with conflicting interests the creation of a football stadium is another venue for conflict as many religious jews view sports as a threat to their way of life issues include locating a site for housing new immigrants as few jerusalemites want large numbers of newcomers in their neighborhoods and deciding which sites merit preservation in a city with many deserving candidates but severely limited resources this volume will attract urban specialists as well as those concerned with larger political issues although a few books dealing with some specialised aspects of regional planning have appeared in india there has been no systematic treatment of the subject from the teaching angle embracing the whole field of regional planning drawing attention to to the work done by indian scholars and focusing on indian problems the present book is an attempt in this direction the 12 chapters of the book besides dealing with the concepts methods and techniques of regional planning have been devoted to specific problems in regional development such as regional imbalances rural development backward area development and tribal area development this provides the necessary orientation to the directions in which regional planning is relevant this handbook contributes with new evidence and new insights to the on going debate on the de colonization of knowledge on urban planning in africa african cities grew rapidly since the mid 20th century in part due to rising rural migration and rapid internal demographic growth that followed the independence in most african countries this rapid urbanization is commonly seen as a primary cause of the current urban management challenges with which african cities are confronted this importance given to rapid urbanization prevented the due consideration of other dimensions of the current urban problems challenges and changes in african cities the contributions to this handbook explore these other dimensions looking in particular to the nature and capacity of local self government and to the role of urban governance and urban planning in the poor urban conditions found in most african cities it deals with current and contemporary urban challenges and urban policy responses but also offers an historical overview of local governance and urban policies during the colonial period in the late 19th and 20th centuries offering ample evidence of common features and divergent features as well on a number of facets from intra urban racial segregation solutions to the relationships between the colonial power and the natives to the assimilation policy as practiced by the french and portuguese and the indirect rule put in place by britain in some or in part of its colonies using innovative approaches to the challenges confronting the governance of african cities this handbook is an essential read for students and scholars of urban africa urban planning in africa and african development this book is a comprehensive history of city planning in post independence india it explores how the nature and orientation of city planning have evolved in india s changing sociopolitical context over the past hundred or so years the book situates india s experience within a historical framework in order to illustrate continuities and disjunctions between the pre and post independent indian laws policies and programs for city planning and development it focuses on the development scope and significance of professional planning work in the midst of rapid economic transition migration social disparity and environmental degradation the volume also highlights the need for inclusive planning processes that can provide clean air water and community spaces to large diverse and fast growing communities detailed and insightful this volume will be of interest to researchers and students of public administration civil engineering architecture geography economics and sociology it will also be useful for policy makers and professionals working in the areas of town and country planning illustrated by case studies from both smaller nations such as carriacou barbados and st lucia and larger countries including cuba mexico and jamaica this volume brings together leading writers concerned with environmental planning in the caribbean to provide an interdisciplinary contemporary critical overview they argue that context is central to the practice of environmental planning in this region rather than focusing on a deterministic colonial geography and history this volume proposes that whilst a wide range of foreign planning influences can be felt in different contexts environmental planning emerges in specific settings through the fluid interaction between local and global relations of power thus a number of chapters explore the effects of external discourses upon the region while others examine discourses on the us style democracy and on tourism
