the organizations in this snap shot study play a vital role in the cultural arts field highlighting institutions that reflect the aesthetic spectrum of excellence grounded in the international community perspectives that nurtured their growth these organizations reflect the rich tapestry of racial and cultural groups that are major contributors to the cultural life of this nation they also represent important pillars in the infrastructure of historically underserved and under resourced communities of color and poor white rural sectors this initial 'snap shot' has raised more questions than it answers it is clear that a more extensive in depth study must be conducted to fully understand how organizations that are critical assets to their communities and influence the cultural diverse programming of large organizations are still fragile and at risk of surviving similar to the questions raised by the occupy wall street movement how does the role of the top 1 of wealthy individuals corporate foundation and public funders influence policies to disproportionately support the more endowed organizations and under resource the community cultural organizations that reflect the 99 historical underfunding coupled with economic crisis have further impacted the ability of these important organizations to sustain their operations and some of the snap shot organizations have been forced to close their doors others continue to struggle to survive while serving their communities who are also at risk due to the fiscal crisis that has heightened unemployment homelessness and decreased social services vital to the infrastructure of underserved communities these community cultural arts organizations are in large part multidisciplinary in their framework and are beacons of light for communities that still believe in the promise of equal opportunity and access for all since the second edition of cultural centers of color by the national endowment for the arts december 1993 first edition august 1992 there has not been a critical look at the state of the community cultural arts field this preliminary study begins to address this void by identifying a sample of multidisciplinary cultural arts community organizations that developed specifically to address the cultural and artistic contributions histories and cultural legacies of their communities to a national audience the work of these organizations have been instrumental in making visible and insisting that the stories of their communities are part of our nations narrative the realization that these vital small and mid size community organizations survive in a year to year funding world speaks to the commitment of board of directors staff volunteers and audiences that are committed to their survival it is our expectations that this snap shot of community based cultural arts organizations encourages policymakers funders and communities to understand the critical voices that these institutions contribute to the cultural life of the nation our international profile and their immediate communities leadership has never been more important to the cultural industries the arts together with museums and heritage sites play a vital part in keeping economies going and more importantly in making life worth living people in the sector face a constant challenge to find support for their organizations and to promote the value of culture leadership and management skills are needed to meet the mission of creative arts and cultural organizations and to generate the income that underpins success the problem is where can you learn these essential skills the cultural leadership handbook written by robert hewison and john holden both prime movers in pioneering cultural leadership programmes defines the specific challenges in the cultural sector and enables arts leaders to move from just administration to becoming cultural entrepreneurs turning good ideas into good business this book is intended for anyone with a professional or academic interest anywhere in the cultural sector anywhere in the world it will give you the edge enabling to you to show creative leadership at any level in a cultural organization regardless of whether your particular interest is the performing arts museums and art galleries heritage publishing films broadcasting or new media this book proposes an innovative conceptual framework to explore cultural organizations at a multilateral level and cultural mediators as key figures in cultural and institutionalization processes specifically it analyzes the role of ibero american mediators in the institutionalization of hispanic and lusophone cultures in the first half of the 20th century by means of two institutional networks pen the non governmental writer s association and the international institute of intellectual cooperation predecessor to unesco attempting to combine cultural and global history sociology and literary studies the book uses an analytical focus on intercultural networks and cultural transfer to investigate the multiple activities and roles that these mediators and cultural organizations set in motion literature has traditionally studied major figures and important centers of cultural production but other regions and localities also played a crucial role in the development of intellectual cooperation this book reappraises the place of ibero america in international cultural relations and retrieves the lost history of key secondary actors the book will appeal to scholars from international relations global and cultural history sociology postcolonial studies world and comparative literature and new hispanisms the open access version of this book available at taylorfrancis.com/books/e/9780429299407 has been made available under a creative commons attribution non commercial no derivatives 4 0 license too often studies of organizational culture are conceived from a management perspective and deal largely with problems of leadership this wide ranging book offers in contrast a sophisticated overview of the various issues which a theory of organizational culture must address what are cultural centers for this book offers a unique and dynamic guide to managing these organizations and the challenge of reconciling cultural aims with business success drawing on research and practice it provides case based insights into common managerial problems and their solutions although international research demonstrates that culture has positive economic impact and many cultural institutions are multimillion dollar institutions there has been little research on how cultural centers are managed to combine cultural and economic impact due to the diversity of their missions and purpose cultural centers in europe often struggle to find business success by drawing on recent cases from finland and sweden and focusing on the challenges that face both managers and organizations this book explores the incentives that underpin the foundation of cultural centers and what is needed to make them a success by defining the complex challenges that face cultural centers this book enables managers to move beyond administrating an organization to becoming cultural entrepreneurs turning good ideas into good business in this underresearched area this book will be essential reading for researchers policy makers and managers working in cultural centers and museum management
