once labeling complementary and alternative medicine cam as quackery or fraud the biomedical community is becoming increasingly complex as it struggles to cope with the explosion of alternative treatments seen in the united states with the establishment of the national center for complementary and alternative medicine along with an increase in departments or courses on alternative medicine seen in major american medical schools cam has nudged its way into mainstream medicine now that it has gained a foothold in the biomedical community several questions arise about its impact on our culture this issue of the annals sheds light on the political economic role as well as socio cultural influences of cam over the past 20 years this collection of articles also addressees the global and cross cultural dimensions of cam with ever changing messages in the media about cam and biomedicine the task of evaluating it is daunting yet the contributors to this issue social scientists devote to researching the effects of cam on our society are able to provide insight and a thorough commentary on the meanings of health illness and modes of healing many developing countries including the least developed countries have attracted only small amounts of foreign direct investment fdi despite their efforts at economic liberalisation in an increasingly globalising world unctad has prepared this three volume manual with the aim of helping developing countries to enhance the capacity of their government agencies to compile analyse and disseminate data on fdi and the operations of transnational corporations tncs based on internationally recommended standards the volumes are fdi flow and stock data statistics on the operations of transnational corporations and collecting and reporting fdi tnc statistics institutional issues this volume i stresses the importance of collecting data on fdi flows and stocks in line with international definitions and standards it provides definitions and an overview of the existing standards set or used by international organisations and national compilers and discusses and evaluates different approaches to compiling fdi flow and stock data identifies data complexities and problems and presents solutions to each of them the world e parliament report 2012 presents the latest data on the use and availability of systems applications hardware and tools in parliaments all over the world the findings presented in the report are based on the results of the global survey of ict in parliaments 2012 conducted by the global centre for ict in parliament between february and may 2012 comparisons are offered in the 2008 and 2010 editions the report provides readers with concrete examples of the adoption of ict in the most significant areas of parliamentary business the report is intended to be read in conjunction with the 2008 and 2010 reports the aim of this study is to take stock of and to analyse the major developments in the interpretation of procedural and substantive international investment agreement iia provisions as contained in bilateral investment treaties and economic integration agreements with investment provisions it addresses the implications of those developments for countries emphasizing the particular needs of developing countries it presents some conclusions and reflections on possible next steps that countries could take to implement the lessons learned from the investor state dispute settlement experience many developing countries are looking to tourism as a potentially promising avenue for economic and human development this is a relatively new position for some countries and reflects the rapid increase in tourism in terms of both numbers of arrivals and revenues for several economies in recent years fdi is one of the routes through which developing countries can carry out tourism but the dynamics of fdi in this dynamic sector and its implications have been relatively little studied a significant part of tourism s development potential stems from the fact that it links together a series of cross cutting activities involving the provision of goods and services such as accommodation transport entertainment construction and agricultural and fisheries production on the other hand tourism is a sensitive sector that is vulnerable to external shocks economic environmental and political as well as potentially creating problems of its own contrary to common perceptions one finding of this study is that fdi in tourism is relatively low compared to other globalized activities including services such as telecommunications or finance and compared to domestic investment fdi exists in only a small number of the many diverse activities that comprise what could be called the international tourism economy the main investments are in hotels and restaurants with little fdi in airlines although this is growing and in high profile and important activities such as tour operations or global reservation systems tourism related fdi is also largely concentrated in developed countries the publication examines how six countries argentina mexico pakistan philippines ethiopia and viet nam have been affected by the elimination of trade related investment measures trims the study suggests that the extent to which trims have helped advance the objectives set out has varied considerably reflecting the specific economic conditions and policy environment of the country using them this study responds to an asia pacific economic cooperation apec forum investment experts group request to identify the core elements in investment agreements in the apec region this includes identifying the range of approaches taken in respect of these elements the study sample selected by apec includes 28 international investment agreements iias between and or involving apec member economies these comprise 14 bilateral investment treaties bits and 14 preferential trade and investment agreements ptias the report also provides a means for considering how different iia address three possible objectives investment liberalisation investment protection and investment promotion
