an evangelical adrift is a theological biography of john henry newman 1801 1890 that reconstructs the most formative period in his development the years between his teenage conversion to evangelicalism in 1816 and the beginning of the tractarian movement in 1833 by the early 1830s newman had explicitly rejected much of the theology he espoused in the late 1810s and early 1820s and developed a highly original deeply personal and quite radical alternative whose fundamental notions continued to shape his thought in later life to date there is neither a historically accurate nor a theologically sophisticated account of this change the period in which it occurred is neglected its significance is overlooked its nature and content are misrepresented and its scope is narrowed the present study offers a compelling alternative to both mainline and revisionist interpretations based on detailed historical and theological analysis of the whole range of primary sources including much neglected published and unpublished material it meticulously reconstructs newman s youthful adoption of gradual departure from and theological alternative to evangelicalism against most mainline studies it argues that this was a fundamental transformation affecting nearly every aspect of newman s theology against turner and other revisionists it argues that this change was the product of careful and consistent theological reasoning and reflection and that anti liberalism was just as integral to it as anti evangelicalism
