This volume brings together in convenient form a rich selection of Japanese prose dating from the ninth to the seventeenth centuries, a period during which the preeminent cultural and aesthetic values were those of the Heian court. It contains 22 works representing all the major indigenous literary forms either complete or in generous excerpts, and is particularly rich in writing by women and in autobiographical writings. This anthology contains longer selections than the only other available anthology, which was published in the 1950s, and each selection is preceded by an introduction reflecting the most recent scholarship. With three exceptions, all the translations are by the compilers, and almost all of them are published here for the first time because of space limitations. The compiler has omitted the two long masterpieces of the age, the Tale of Genji and the Tale of Heike, which deserve to be read in their entirety and which are available in paperback English translations. The book contains an extensive general introduction, thirteen illustrations, five maps, a glossary, and a selected bibliography of works in English translation.

Once upon a time there lived an old couple known as the Bamboo Crafts People. They were happy but lonely, so they prayed for a child to love in their old age. One night under a full moon, Mr. Bamboo Cutter saw a strange sight: many monkeys were gathered by a golden bamboo, acting crazy. On the next full moon, he returned when the monkeys disappeared. He put his hand on the bamboo, and his hand was stuck to the burning hot bamboo. With his knife, he cut into the bamboo; inside, he saw a laughing little baby. Oh, Lord Buddha! Thank you for the beautiful little girl. The old couple was so happy they named her Bamboo Princess. Everyone in the village was talked about her beauty and her kindness. Girls wanted to look like her, and boys wanted to marry her. One day, a wise young man arrived. He was a healer with musical hands. The princess was overjoyed; she asked him to stay and take care of her aging parents. He agreed, but she told him she had to return to her true home on the moon. Mr. Music Hands asked everyone to save the princess. The next evening, a strong army gathered to protect the princess. When a shooting star hit the roof of the tiny old house, the princess began floating high above the clouds. Goodbye, whenever the moon is full, I will be looking over you all. The children in the village knew this story, and soon they learned healing ways of tapping musical hands to help their elders. This is the story of how the compassionate princess and Mr. Music Hands brought peace and health to the land. We can all benefit from music hands. Kind children can help their parents to enjoy the experience of healing. This is the best gift of all, as a matter of faith. All of you who hear this story can also find the Bodhisattva Princess Bamboo within.
