the seventy two passages pertain to pure divine ideas which and creation although they are more abstract in nature much knowledge about the nature of god s creatures and creations for the student of theory an advanced theurgist will find in these passages more than theoretic knowledge such a student will also know about the dangers that arise resulting from wrong practice fortunately the mysteries protect themselves the christian reception of the hebrew name of god has not previously been described in such detail and over such an extended period this work places that varied reception within the context of early jewish and christian texts patristic studies jewish christian relationships mediaeval thought the renaissance and reformation the history of printing and the development of christian hebraism the contribution of notions of the tetragrammaton to orthodox doctrines and debates is exposed as is the contribution its study made to non orthodox imaginative constructs and theologies gnostic kabbalistic hermetic and magical texts are given equally detailed consideration there emerge from this sustained and detailed examination several recurring themes concerning the difficulty of naming god his being and his providence humanity is a single biological species but has split into two different mental species labelled mythos and logos the mythos species is driven by emotional stories not by facts evidence or rational arguments even scientific materialism is a mythos the sensory mythos which asserts that rational unobservables undetectable by the senses simply cannot exist the enlightenment the age of reason was when logos humanity came to the fore hyperhumanity is the upgrade of logos humanity that advocates hyperrationalism old humanity stuck in its irrational mythos past will become extinct the future is about the new human race hyperhumanity do you belong to the illuminated ones the shining ones the divine ones or are you on your knees to some story book god an irrational market or irrational devotion to your physical senses hyperhumanity is not here to help old humanity it is here to replace it we are the true human race that which seeks to claim its rightful prize divinity

Pardes Rimonim, the Orchard of Pomegranates, is the magnum opus of Rabbi Moshe Cordovero (Ramak, 1522–1570), written in Safed in the mid-16th century. It is the first systematic encyclopedia of kabbalah in which ancient mystical teachings were gathered and organized into a coherent system. The title of the book is symbolic: the pomegranate, with its hundreds of seeds, represents the multitude of mysteries and meanings contained within the Torah and the cosmos, like a garden filled with diverse fruits. Kabbalah is presented in the book as a holistic, harmonious teaching across 32 gates. Ramak guides the reader through key areas of mystical thought, from the doctrine of the one God and the ten sefirot to the structure of spiritual worlds, angels, and demons; the nature of the soul; the meaning of commandments; and the mystery of future redemption. This book blends philosophical clarity with poetic inspiration. It opens a path not only to understanding kabbalah but also to experiencing it as a living reality where each step of the seeker brings them closer to the infinite. There are books written in ink, and there are books written in light. Pardes Rimonim is not merely the treatise of a sage; it is a garden into which one enters with a bare heart. There, branches intertwine like the paths of the sefirot; there, pomegranates hang heavy with fruit, each seed holding a secret, each seed a part of the whole. Rabbi Moshe Cordovero, the Great Ramak, opened the gates of this garden in Safed, where the air was filled with hymns and revelations, and gathered all the voices of kabbalah so that in one place they might sing a symphony of infinity. Here we learn that God is one, that His light shines through ten vessels, that the human soul is bound to the roots of creation, and that every commandment, every prayer, is a thread mending the fabric of the world but this garden is not only a solace it is also a challenge for the deeper we wander its paths the more we realize behind the first mystery lies a second behind the second a third and so on endlessly until we dissolve into ein sof whoever enters this garden with an open heart will hear the leaves whisper eternal names and perhaps find there their own fruit sweet and radiant like a spark of the soul
