this book sheds light on the reciprocal relations between liturgical performance and the physical spaces in which they took place in synagogues and churches in antiquity the kernel of the manuscript revolves around a decorated stone that was found during the excavations of a synagogue dated to the first century ce at magdala on the shore of the sea of galilee the book displays how this important archaeological discovery radically transforms our understanding of the changes in the shape of the liturgical space and the liturgical furniture in the places of assembly of the two sister faiths judaism and christianity this classic study begins with a general analysis of precious stones followed by descriptions of their cutting and mounting the remainder of this volume focuses on the diamond 52 figures
