this unique new work of reference traces the origins of the modern laws of warfare from the earliest times to the present day relying on written records from as far back as 2400 bce and using sources ranging from the bible to security council resolutions the author pieces together the history of a subject which is almost as old as civilisation itself the author shows that as long as humanity has been waging wars it has also been trying to find ways of legitimising different forms of combatants and ascribing rules to them protecting civilians who are either inadvertently or intentionally caught up between them and controlling the use of particular classes of weapons that may be used in times of conflict thus it is that this work is divided into three substantial parts volume 1 on the laws affecting combatants and captives volume 2 on civilians and volume 3 on the law of arms control this second book on civilians examines four different topics the first topic deals with the targeting of civilians in times of war this discussion is one which has been largely governed by the developments of technologies which have allowed projectiles to be discharged over ever greater areas and attempts to prevent their indiscriminate utilisation have struggled to keep pace the second topic concerns the destruction of the natural environment with particular regard to the utilisation of starvation as a method of warfare and unlike the first topic this one has rarely changed over thousands of years although contemporary practices are beginning to represent a clear break from tradition the third topic is concerned with the long standing problems of civilians under the occupation of opposing military forces where the practices of genocide collective punishments and or reprisals and rape have occurred the final topic in this volume is about the theft or destruction of the property of the enemy in terms of either pillage or the intentional devastation of the cultural property of the opposition as a work of reference this set of three books is in visible war addresses a paradox of twenty first century american warfare the contemporary visual american experience of war is ubiquitous and yet war is simultaneously invisible or absent we lack a lived sense that america is at war this paradox of in visibility concerns the gap between the experiences of war zones and the visual mediated experience of war in public popular culture which absents and renders invisible the former large portions of the domestic public experience war only at a distance for these citizens war seems abstract or may even seem to have disappeared altogether due to a relative absence of visual images of casualties perhaps even more significantly wars can be fought without sacrifice by the vast majority of americans yet the normalization of twenty first century war also renders it highly visible war is made visible through popular commercial mediated culture the spectacle of war occupies the contemporary public sphere in the forms of celebrations at athletic events and in films video games and other media coming together as mime the military industrial media entertainment network most histories of australia s great war rush their readers into the trenches this history is very different for the first time it examines events closely even hour by hour in both britain and australia during the last days of peace in july august 1914 london s choice for war was a very close run thing at the height of the diplomatic crisis leading to war it looked very much like britain would choose neutrality only very late in the evening of tuesday 4 august did a small clique in the british cabinet finally engineer a declaration of war against germany meanwhile australia s political leaders deep in the throes of a federal election campaign competed with each other in a love of empire auction they leapt ahead of events in london at the height of the diplomatic crisis they offered to transfer the brand new royal australian navy to the british admiralty most importantly on monday 3 august an inner group of the australian cabinet egged on by the governor general offered an expeditionary force of 20 000 men to serve anywhere for any objective under british command and with the whole cost to be borne by australia some forty hours before the british cabinet made up its mind australia s leaders thereby lost the chance to set limits to weigh objectives or to insist upon consultation they needlessly exposed australian soldiers and their families to the full horror of the mechanised slaughter that was to come they were hell bent and they got there
