in the battle for the trinity dr bloesch tackles the controversial issues surrounding the questions of god language and their potential as one of the most divisive issues facing the church in the twentieth century should god be addressed as father mother or parent should jesus be referred to primarily as the son of god or the child of god did god really reveal himself definitively in the person of his son jesus christ bloesch contends that how we speak about god embodies the very core of christianity and how we ultimately understand the biblical and historical meaning of the trinity itself the debates surrounding the doctrine of god are many and bloesch urges the church to respond to the concerns of women that the sacred carries both masculine and feminine dimensions bloesch emphasizes that the god of the bible is not described in masculine terms exclusively and we err in our failure to recognize it if christianity is to remain genuinely christian these controversial issues must be dealt with in such a manner that will preserve the full historical and biblical understanding of the trinity in houses of the interpreter david lyle jeffrey explores the terrain of the cultural history of biblical interpretation but jeffrey does not merely rest content to chart biblical scholarship and how it has both influenced and been influenced by culture instead he chooses to focus upon the art of biblical interpretation how sculptors musicians poets novelists and painters have read the bible by so doing jeffrey clearly demonstrates that such cultural interpretation has deepened the church's understanding of the bible as scripture and that remarkably this cultural reading has contributed to theology and the practice of faith jeffrey's chapters effectively root the theological issues central to any hermeneutical enterprise e g scriptural authority narrative the old testament as christian scripture the role of the reader gender and postmodernism in specific authors and artists e g chaucer bosch sir orfeo c s lewis and he does this in constant conversation with literature both eastern and western this annotated bibliography a volume in the greenwood series bibliographies and indexes in religious studies provides access to the numerous writings from the 1960s through the 1990s on feminism and christian tradition major feminist theologians and sociologists are represented as a guide to further research this cross disciplinary approach presents themes and issues in both a historical and a topical framework an extensive overview of feminism in relation to the women's movement women's studies sociology and american religion introduces the literature and provides a historical context for the nearly one thousand entries that follow cross referenced throughout the literature is presented in six thematic categories that include introductory and background materials feminism and the development of feminist theology topical literatures in feminist theology feminism and womanist theology religious leadership of women and responses and recent developments separate author subject and title indexes complete the volume is it okay to call god mother john cooper's our father in heaven explores this question offering a critique of inclusive language for god cooper closely examines how scripture addresses god and points out the critical differences between the bible's gendered language for god and inclusive language in addition he encourages the church to follow the bible's model of using feminine imagery in reference to god in a chapter titled the motherly touch of our heavenly father he provides specific suggestions for making appropriate use of feminine imagery for god in public worship church education evangelism pastoral counseling personal devotions scholarship and art theory and method are two words that cause considerable consternation in the academic study of religion although everyone claims to be aware of and to engage them the fact of the matter is that they remain poorly understood some see the terms as irritants that get in the way of data interpretation and translation others may invoke them sporadically to appear in vogue but then return quickly and myopically to their material and with little concern for the larger issues that such terms raise to contribute to these debates the present volume reproduces select articles from method and theory in the study of religion mtsr from the first 25 volumes of the journal and allows a group of younger scholars to introduce and review them asking if the issues raised are still relevant to the field contributors include matt sheedy robert a segal james b apple neil mcmullin rebekka king russell mccutcheon craig martin donal wiebe emma cohen robert n mccauley e thomas lawson steven engler mark q gardiner bruce lincoln sarah e rollens burton mack yasmin merchant herb bergh jennifer hall darlene juschka ella paldam and armin geertz
