from the beginning of time humans have been driven by both a fear of the unknown and a curiosity to know we have always yearned to know what lies ahead whether threat or safety scarcity or abundance throughout human history our forebears tried to create certainty in the unknown by seeking to influence outcomes with sacrifices to gods preparing for the unexpected with advice from oracles and by reading the stars through astrology as scientific methods improve and computer technology develops we become ever more confident of our capacity to predict and quantify the future by accumulating and interpreting patterns from the past yet the truth is there is still no certainty to be had in this very short introduction jennifer gidley considers some of our most burning questions what is the future is the future a time yet to come or is it a utopian place does the future have a history is there only one future or are there many possible futures she asks if the future can ever be truly predicted or if we create our own futures both hoped for and feared by our thoughts feelings and actions and concludes by analysing how we can learn to study the future about the series the very short introductions series from oxford university press contains hundreds of titles in almost every subject area these pocket sized books are the perfect way to get ahead in a new subject quickly our expert authors combine facts analysis perspective new ideas and enthusiasm to make interesting and challenging topics highly readable each number includes reviews and book notices an instant new york times bestseller this book will change your sense of how grand the sweep of human history could be where you fit into it and how much you could do to change it for the better it s as simple and as ambitious as that ezra klein an oxford philosopher makes the case for longtermism that positively influencing the long term future is a key moral priority of our time the fate of the world is in our hands humanity's written history spans only five thousand years our yet unwritten future could last for millions more or it could end tomorrow astonishing numbers of people could lead lives of great happiness or unimaginable suffering or never live at all depending on what we choose to do today in what we owe the future philosopher William Macaskill argues for longtermism that idea that positively influencing the distant future is a key moral priority of our time from this perspective it's not enough to reverse climate change or avert the next pandemic we must ensure that civilization would rebound if it collapsed counter the end of moral progress and prepare for a planet where the smartest beings are digital not human if we make wise choices today our grandchildren's grandchildren will thrive knowing we did everything we could to give them a world full of justice hope and beauty
