this heavily revised third edition of an award winning text offers a keen insight into the development of scientific thought in early modern europe including coverage of the central scientific figures of the time including copernicus kelper galileo newton and bacon this book provides a comprehensive overview of how the scientific revolution happened and why highlighting europe s colonial and trade expansion in the sixteenth and 17th centuries peter dear traces the revolution in scientific thought that changed the natural world from something to be contemplated into something to be used this book is ideal for undergraduate and postgraduate students of early modern history european history history of medicine history of science and technology and the history and philosophy of science the first edition was the winner of the watson davis and helen miles davis prize of the history of science society new to this edition greater treatment of alchemy and associated craft activities to reflect ongoing new scholarship more focus on geographical issues especially relating to spain and its new world territories as well as eastern europe but also further afield in islamic territories including the ottoman empire and south and east asia new material on the themes of science and religion gender and class more extensive treatment of the relationship in this period of medicine to the various sciences and especially to new natural philosophies incorporation of new scholarship throughout a whole chapter dedicated to francis bacon further discussion of the gendered elements of natural philosophy a brand new historiographical essay in today s academe the fields of science and literature are considered unconnected one relying on raw data and fact the other focusing on fiction during the period between the renaissance and the enlightenment however the two fields were not so distinct just as the natural philosophers of the era were discovering in and adopting from literature new strategies and techniques for their discourse so too were poets and storytellers finding inspiration in natural philosophy particularly in astronomy a work that speaks to the history of science and literary studies fictions of the cosmos explores the evolving relationship that ensued between fiction and astronomical authority by examining writings of kepler godwin hooke cyrano cavendish fontenelle and others frédérique aït touati shows that it was through the telling of stories such as through accounts of celestial journeys that the copernican hypothesis for example found an ontological weight that its geometric models did not provide aït touati draws from both cosmological treatises and fictions of travel and knowledge as well as personal correspondences drawings and instruments to emphasize the multiple borrowings between scientific and literary discourses this volume sheds new light on the practices of scientific invention experimentation and hypothesis formation by situating them according to their fictional or factual tendencies a monumental and exhilarating history of european thought from the end of antiquity to the beginning of the enlightenment 500 to 1700 ad tracing the arc of intellectual history as it evolved setting the stage for the modern era with more than 140 illustrations 90 in full color charles freeman lauded historical scholar and author of the closing of the western mind a triumph the times london explores the rebirth of western thought in the centuries that followed the demise of the classical era as the dominance of christian teachings gradually subsided over time a new open mindedness made way for the ideas of morality and theology and fueled and formed the backbone of the western mind of the late middle ages the renaissance and beyond in this wide ranging history freeman follows the immense intellectual development that culminated in the enlightenment from political ideology to philosophy and theology as well as the fine arts and literature he writes in vivid detail of how europeans progressed from the christian minded thinking of saint augustine to the more open minded later scholars such as michel de montaigne leading to a broader more humanist way of thinking he explores how the discovery of america fundamentally altered european conceptions of humanity religion and science how the rise of protestantism and the reformation profoundly influenced the tenor of politics and legal systems with enormous repercussions and how the radical christianity of philosophers such as spinoza affected a rethinking of the concept of religious tolerance that has influenced the modern era ever since
