a reassessment of the function and importance of gifts in social life and in the constitution of social relations based on the work of marcel mauss in 1921 mauss advanced a theory of the gift which drew sharp criticisms from levi strauss among others like earlier thinkers the author analyses things one gives and things one sells he begins however with those things that can be neither given nor sold but which must be kept chief among which are sacred objects after a fresh analysis of the potlatch and the kula which lay at the heart of mauss s theory he shows that the engimas which stymied mauss are resolved once one sees that objects can be at the same time given and kept what is given is the alienable right of usage what is kept is the inalienable ownership he then explains why this rule applies to valuables that are given but not to sacred objects which must be kept the author explores how and why the impoverished and mentally tormented van gogh came to be glorified shortly after his suicide at the age of 37 apart from describing his life she also explores the economics of the art market in an appendix attention is given to van gogh and art criticism in france 1888 1901

if scholars no longer necessarily find the essence and origins of what came to be known as christianity in the personality of a historical figure known as jesus of nazareth it nevertheless remains the case that the study of early christianity is dominated by an assumption of the force of jesus s personality on divergent communities in the godman and the sea michael j thate shifts the terms of this study by focusing on the gospel of mark which ends when mary magdalene mary the mother of james and salome discover a few days after the crucifixion that jesus s tomb has been opened but the corpse is not there unlike the other gospels mark does not include the resurrection portraying instead loss puzzlement and despair in the face of the empty tomb reading mark s gospel as an exemplary text that examines what he considers to be retellings of other traumatic experiences the stories of jesus s exorcising demons out of a man and into a herd of swine his stilling of the storm and his walking on the water drawing widely on a diverse set of resources that include the canon of western fiction classical literature the psychological study of trauma phenomenological philosophy the new materialism psychoanalytic theory poststructural philosophy and hebrew bible scholarship as well as the expected catalog of new testament tools of biblical criticism in general and markan scholarship in particular the godman and the sea is an experimental reading of the gospel of mark and the social force of the sea within its traumatized world more fundamentally however it attempts to position this reading as a story of trauma ecstasy and what has become through the ruins of past pain
