do not think for one instant that a life of crime is glamorous and exciting it is not it is a life of degradation dishonesty misery violence and loss of liberty it has been more than 30 years since the mr asia drug syndicate came apart when the handless toothless body of martin johnstone was found dumped in a quarry in england the members of the syndicate were responsible for a string of dead bodies all over the world and the importation of hundreds of kilograms of heroin and marijuana into australia new zealand and britain and they made tens of millions of dollars doing it in this never before heard story from the only surviving member of the syndicate james shepherd tells of mr asia s rise and fall in gritty horrifying detail this is not the flashy glamourised account put forward in underbelly but raw unadulterated truth james shepherd was named by the 1983 stewart royal commission as second in charge of the mr asia drug syndicate and was given a 25 year sentence for his role the long years spent in jail contemplating the murder and misery caused by the syndicate convinced him that the full story needed to be told as a warning to others if nothing else the result is something unique as fascinating as it is horrifying it s the real insiders account of the multi million dollar kill or be killed world of our most notorious international drug syndicate time and the everyday in slow cinema examines the phenomenon of slow cinema a style defined by its lingering focus on quotidian activities and extended durations rosa barotsi argues that while the style emerges from a tradition of durational filmmaking and resonates with movements advocating for deceleration it is also deeply entangled in the structures of late capitalism creating a dynamic tension between radicalism and conservatism this book situates the trend between artistic innovation and institutional commodification ultimately raising critical questions about spectatorship cinematic time and the politics of cultural value preserved buildings and historic districts museums and reconstructions have become an important part of the landscape of cities around the world beginning in the 1970s tokyo participated in this trend however repeated destruction and rapid redevelopment left the city with little building stock of recognized historical value late twentieth century tokyo thus presents an illuminating case of the emergence of a new sense of history in the city s physical environment since it required both a shift in perceptions of value and a search for history in the margins and interstices of a rapidly modernizing cityscape scholarship to date has tended to view historicism in the postindustrial context as either a genuine response to loss or as a cynical commodification of the past the historical process of tokyo s historicization suggests other interpretations moving from the politics of the public square to the invention of neighborhood community to oddities found and appropriated in the streets to the consecration of everyday scenes and artifacts as heritage in museums tokyo vernacular traces the rediscovery of the past sometimes in unlikely forms in a city with few traditional landmarks tokyo s rediscovered past was mobilized as part of a new politics of the everyday after the failure of mass politics in the 1960s rather than conceiving the city as national center and claiming public space as national citizens the post 1960s generation came to value the local places and things that embodied the vernacular language of the city and to seek what could be claimed as common property outside the spaces of corporate capitalism and the state this volume explores how researchers made innovative use of online technologies to innovate define and transform research methodologies in light of the varying impacts of the covid 19 pandemic especially those related to the ability to conduct qualitative research the onset of the covid 19 pandemic resulted in a radical shift in the way that people all over the world were have been able to live work study and conduct their daily lives academics and other professionals who routinely engage in research were no exception the sudden continued and uneven need for health mandates calling for physical distancing added a particular layer of complexity for those who used research methods that typically required face to face interactions continued technological developments associated with the internet had already given rise to ongoing debates on innovative methodological thinking and practices the covid 19 pandemic has further accentuated how indispensable the internet has become for the private and public lives of those with access to it including for their employment education leisure and social interactions for those fortunate enough to have access to them communication software such as zoom and google meet have also become indispensable digital resources for researchers seeking to continue conducting research during lockdowns and quarantines and beyond more than ever researchers are finding it useful even necessary to equip themselves with online research tools in order to be able to continue conducting their fieldwork drawing on research and case studies from around the world this volume serves as a guidebook for those interested in attuning their own research methods to a world still struggling to grapple with the impacts of the covid 19 pandemic
