a book about travel around the mediterranean describing experiences history and geography

the majority of scholarly conceptions of the mediterranean focus on the sea's northern shores with its historical epicentres of Spain France or Italy this book seeks to demonstrate the importance of economic political and cultural networks emanating from the mediterranean's lesser studied southern shores the various chapters emphasize the activities that made connections between the southern shores sub saharan africa the lands along its northern shores and beyond to the United States in doing so the book avoids a eurocentric approach and details the importance of the players and regions of the southern hinterland in the analysis of the mediterranean space the cultural aspects of the north african countries be they music literature film commerce or political activism continue to transform the public spheres of the countries along the northern shores of the mediterranean and beyond to the whole of the European continent in its focus on the often overlooked north african shore the work is an innovative contribution to the historiography of the mediterranean region this book was originally published as a special issue of the journal of north african studies for over three thousand years the mediterranean sea has been one of the great centres of world civilisation from the time of historical Troy until the middle of the nineteenth century human activity here decisively shaped much of the course of world history David Abulafia's The Great Sea is the first complete history of the mediterranean from the erection of the mysterious temples on Malta around 3500 BC to the recent reinvention of the mediterranean's shores as a tourist destination part of the argument of Abulafia's book is that the great port cities Alexandria Trieste and Salonika and many others prospered in part because of their ability to allow many different peoples religions and identities to co exist within sometimes very confined spaces he also brilliantly populates his history with identifiable individuals whose lives illustrate with great immediacy the wider developments he is describing the great sea ranges stupendously across time and the whole extraordinary space of the mediterranean from Gibraltar to Jaffa Venice to Alexandria rather than imposing a false unity on the sea and the teeming human activity it has sustained the book emphasises diversity ethnic linguistic religious and political anyone who reads it will leave it with their understanding of those societies and their histories enormously enriched as they travel around the sea at the center of western history Eric Newby and his wife Wanda visit not only the better known mediterranean sights and cities but also venture into places where westerners are few albania under hoxha the holy muslim city of fez and a country about to disappear in civil war the former yugoslavia eric newby entertains and enlightens as he follows in the footsteps of cleopatra and st john and waits for a meeting with colonel gaddafi with his customary flair for description he is equally at easy pondering king david s choice of jerusalem as the site for a capital city or enjoying a meal cooked by one of france s finest chefs his acute curiosity and encyclopedic knowledge combine to make absorbing reading whether he is explaining the workings of a defunct turkish harem or the contemporary mafia from antiquity to the present eric newby s erudite engaging tale is not a simple tour but a tour de force this comprehensive study delves into the strategic importance of the mediterranean sea and examines key conflicts as well as the roles of extra regional actors such as nato russia and the usa in shaping dynamics within the eastern mediterranean the mediterranean has always attracted the imagination of modern historians as the epicentre of great political entities such as the egyptians greeks romans arabs ottomans venetians and spanish however it seems that the sea itself was always on the margins of historical inquiry at least until the publication of the famous two volume work by f braudel in 1949 this collection of essays aims to offer a vertical history of war in the mediterranean sea from the early middle ages to the early modernity putting the emphasis on the changing face of several different aspects and contexts of war over time contributors are stephen bennett stathis birtachas cornel bontea wayne h bowen lilia campana raffaele d amato elina gugliuzzo nikolaos kanellopoulos savvas kyriakides tilemachos lounghis alan v murray chrysovalantis papadamou jacopo pessina philip rance georgios theotokis iason tzouriadis ian wilson and aysel yildiz fully indexed the 1991 edition of the yearbook is the single most current comprehensive and authoritative reference publication about the work of the united nations other international organizations and related bodies the book is designed not just for use by diplomats officials and scholars but also by other researchers writers journalists teachers and students the year 1991 was a remarkably eventful one for the united nations and in the conduct of international relations this volume of the yearbook details the activities of the united nations its many organs agencies and programmes working together to rekindle a new form of multilateral cooperation for a better world it records the diverse and globe encompassing activities of the united nations and its enduring efforts to deal with the world s pressing concerns particularly matters of international peace and security disarmament human rights the settlement of regional conflicts economic and social development the preservation of the environment control of
