regarded by some as mad and by others as a genius zimbabwean writer dambudzo marechera is today ten years after his death considered to be one of the most innovative writers that africa has produced this new book is a collection of critical essays devoted entirely to marechera's work and includes contributions from academics in zimbabwe south africa italy nigeria germany and the united kingdom who show the complexity and variety of responses that marechera's writing evokes

this collection inspired by the life and work of the zimbabwean cult writer dambudzo marechera demonstrates the growing influence of this author among writers artists and scholars worldwide and invites the reassessment of his oeuvre and of categories of literary theory such as modernism and postcolonialism no i don't hate being black i'm just tired of saying it's beautiful no i don't hate myself i'm just tired of people bruising their knuckles on my jaw a novella with the force of a screaming trumpet flare dambudzo marechera's seminal literary debut explores a body and spirit exiled from the land and the self an inimitable and internationally admired writer his profound ambivalence and wry existential sensibility was forged in this iconic book

the black inside develops the preoccupations of his award winning house of hunger by exploring in his devastatingly honest way the predicaments of exile and the black identity and examining the realities of living under the threat of the bomb book jacket this book engages with those major events but in the main concentrates on the writing marechera s extraordinary lifestyle has meant that much of the earlier criticism was about the man rather than the writing this book aims to redress the balance and is the first full length study of the marecheran oeuvre to be published book jacket a collection of marechera s last writings which evoke city life and its many disparate facets from the glittering fashion shops to the tramps in back alleys what at first sight often seems peaceful and harmless is suddenly disrupted by flashes of madness for in marechera s universe everyday life is always haunted by the nightmare of zimbabwe s past seminar paper from the year 2006 in the subject english language and literature studies literature grade 2 0 university of regensburg language english abstract the authors i want to concentrate on in this paper charles mungoshi and dambudzo marechera are both african writers who belong to the so called second generation of zimbabwean writers which means that they were born between 1940 and 1959 and published in the 1960s and 70s 1they speak for the lost generation 2which grew up after world war second in a country reign by a white minority government and shattered by a guerrilla war against that government and have somehow lost their identity however although they were born in the same period of time in the same country and were influenced by the same political and cultural circumstances on which i will put a closer focus later their lives were very different mungoshi grew up in a rural area and stayed in zimbabwe during the time of war whereas marechera was a township child who left zimbabwe and lived in the exile in england during the time of the war as a result their writings which were heavily influenced by their autobiographies mirror these differences in their ways of life in this paper i will first look at the historical background in which both authors grew up at political cultural social and educational circumstances secondly i am going to depict what their lives looked like and which were the differences and gemeinsamkeiten in their ways of life after that i will analyse how those differences and also the gemeinsamkeiten in their ways of life influenced their writing made them develop their special own styles and are mirrored in the themes of their narratives as an example i will have a closer look at two of their most important writings which are dambudzo marechera s short story collection the house of hunger published in 19 and charles mungoshi s novel waiting for the rain published in19 by analysing them concerning the form and the content and also by searching for autobiographical traces in both works in the end i will try to compare both writings and depict the most important differences and gemeinsamkeiten concentrating on issues of power and change this analysis of texts by chinua achbe bessie head and dambudzi marechera teases out each author s view of how colonialism affected africa the contributions of africans to their malaise and how many reacted in creative progressive pragmatic ways this book seeks to unfold the complexity within the works of dambudzo marechera and presents scholars and readers with a way of reading his works in light of utopian thinking writing during a traumatic transitional period in Zimbabwe's history. Marechera witnessed the upheavals caused by different parties battling for power in the nation aware of the fact that all institutionalized narratives whether they originated from the colonial governance of the UK Ian Smith's white minority regime or Zimbabwe's revolutionary parties appeal to visions of a utopian society but reveal themselves to be fiction. Marechera imagined a unique utopia for Marechera. Utopia is not a static entity but a moment of perpetual change. He rethinks utopia by phrasing it as an ongoing event that ceaselessly contests institutionalized narratives of the postcolonial self and its relationship to society. Marechera writes towards a vision of an alternative future for the country yet it is a vision that does not constitute a fully rounded sense of utopia being cautious about the world and the operation of power upon the people rather than imposing his own utopian ideals. Marechera chooses instead to destabilize the narrative constitution of the self in relation to society in order to turn towards a truly radical utopian thinking that empowers the individual.

compelling memoir of Flora Veit Wild and her relationship with the Zimbabwean novelist poet playwright and essayist Dambudzo Marechera one of Africa's most innovative and subversive writers and a significant voice in contemporary world literature. How Shall I Tell Our Story I Hear Your Voice Ringing in Mine I struggle to disentangle a dense tapestry of memories one thread will be caught up in another early images will embrace later ones my gaze will often be filtered through your eyes your poems in the end I will not always be able to tell the original from the reflection just as you wrote time's fingers on the piano play emotion into motion the dancers in the looking glass never recognise us as their originals this book is a memoir with a double heartbeat at its centre is the author's relationship with the late Zimbabwean writer Dambudzo Marechera whose award-winning book The House of Hunger marked him as a powerful disruptive perhaps prophetic voice in African literature. Flora Veit Wild is internationally recognised for her significant contribution to preserving Marechera's legacy what is less known about Marechera and Veit Wild is that they had an intense personal and sexual relationship this memoir explores this the couple's first encounter in 1983 amidst the euphoria of the newly independent Zimbabwe the tumultuous months when the homeless writer moved in with his lover and her family the bouts of creativity once he had his own flat followed by feelings of abandonment the increasing despair about a love affair that could not stand up against reality and the illness of the writer and his death of HIV related pneumonia in August 1987 what follows are the struggles Flora went through once Dambudzo had died on the one hand she became the custodian of his life and work on the other she had to live with her own HIV infection and the ensuing threats to her health Jacana Southern Africa
