Book three in the Black Flagged series with the most recent bioterrorism threat against the United States neutralized and Dr. Anatoly Reznikov in secret custody. CIA Deputy Director Karl Berg proposes a more permanent solution to prevent future attacks: a covert raid by General Sanderson's Black Flag unit deep inside Russia to destroy a bioweapons program that should have ended with the Cold War. The United States isn't the only nation looking to tie up loose ends: the sudden abduction of a CIA officer in Stockholm exposes the Russian Foreign Intelligence Service's SVR ruthless campaign to discover the truth behind the massacre of an elite Spetsnaz team sent to eliminate Reznikov and permanently bury his knowledge of Vektor's sinister purpose. When the SVR investigation takes a turn that could threaten the mission against Vektor Labs, Berg goes off the books like never before to even the odds through an intricate web of unsavory alliances, deviously orchestrated political maneuvers, and shockingly brutal Black Ops sanctions. Karl Berg will set in motion an unstoppable chain of events with the potential to ignite a new Cold War. Black Flagged: Vektor continues the series' tradition of gritty, unapologetic storytelling, plunging readers even deeper into the murky, shark-infested waters navigated by covert operators and their puppet masters.

The influenza pandemic of 1918–1919, the worst widespread outbreak in recorded history, claimed an estimated 100 million lives globally. Yet only in recent decades has it captured the attention of historians, scientists, and fiction writers. This study surveys influenza research over the last century in original scientific and historical documents and establishes a critical paradigm for the appreciation of influenza fiction through close readings of 15 imaginative works. The author elucidates the contents of and the interaction between the medical and the fictional coverage, extending from Pfeiffer's 1892 bacillus theory to the multidisciplinary effort to isolate the virus (1919–1933) to the reconstruction of the H1N1 viral genome from archival and exhumed RNA (1995–2005) to the emergence of H5N1 and H7N9 avian viruses (1997–2014). This book demonstrates that pandemic fiction has been more than a therapeutic medium for survivors; a prodigious resource for the history of medicine; it is also a forum for ethical, social, legal, national defense, and public health issues.

Hawksley and Georgeou bring together scholars and practitioners from across the region to analyse the main effects of the first two years of the COVID pandemic in a range of case studies from Southeast Asia, East Asia, South Asia, and Oceania. Most authors are nationals of the cases they discuss, written in non-specialist language. Ten case studies are examined providing a useful analysis of the first two years of covid in the asia pacific from the emergence of covid in january 2020 to the lifting of restrictions in december 2021 chapters focus on different issues according to the scholar s academic expertise and a wide diversity of national pandemic experiences challenges and responses are showcased an essential read for scholars and students interested in the areas of asia pacific politics sociology and public health
