american historians have long been fascinated by the peopling of north america in the seventeenth century who were the immigrants and how and why did they make their way across the ocean most of the attention however has been devoted to british immigrants who came as free people or as indentured servants primarily to new england and the chesapeake and to africans who were forced to come as slaves trade in strangers focuses on the eighteenth century when new immigrants began to flood the colonies at an unprecedented rate most of these immigrants were german and irish and they were coming primarily to the middle colonies via an increasingly sophisticated form of transport week shows how first the German system of immigration and then the Irish system evolved from earlier haphazard forms into modern mass transoceanic migration at the center of this development were merchants on both sides of the Atlantic who organized a business that enabled them to make profitable use of underutilized cargo space on ships bound from Europe to the British North American colonies. This trade offered German and Irish immigrants transatlantic passage on terms that allowed even people of little and modest means to pursue opportunities that beckoned in the New World. Trade in strangers fills an important gap in our knowledge of America's immigration history. The eighteenth-century changes established a model for the better-known mass migrations of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries which drew wave after wave of Europeans to the New World in the hope of making a better life than the one they left behind. A story that is familiar to most modern Americans.

The present publication of reports and discussions stems from the fourth session of the Hague-Zagreb Colloquium held at Eernewoude in the Netherlands. The preceding three sessions were held at Stubice Toplice in Yugoslavia 1974, Zeist in the Netherlands 1976 and again in Yugoslavia at Opatija 1978. The fourth session was originally planned for May 1980 on the eve of the meeting of the then President of the Socialist Federal Republic of Yugoslavia, the late Marshall J. B. Tito, passed away on hearing the news of the Marshall's death. The organizing committee of the Hague-Zagreb Colloquium immediately decided that the session should not then be held. The postponement lasted in fact a whole year. The fourth session was convened at Eernewoude in May 1981. For the Eernewoude session the formula that had produced such excellent results in the previous conferences was maintained. Four topics of international trade law were thoroughly discussed on the basis of reports submitted by scholars from the various legal systems represented at the conference. Apart from the Yugoslav and Dutch participants, scholars from the United Kingdom, the Federal Republic of Germany, Belgium and Norway took part in the discussions. Be it in the capacity of reporter, of chairman or as expert in the field covered by the colloquium, the law of international trade, a student competition had again been organized and the members of the winning teams from Yugoslavia and from the Netherlands were among the participants.

Eat your way to better health with this New York Times bestseller on food's ability to help the body heal itself from cancer, dementia and dozens of other avoidable diseases. Forget everything you think you know about your body and food and discover the new science of how the body heals itself. Learn how to identify the strategies and dosages for using food to transform your resilience and health. In Eat to Beat Disease, we have radically underestimated our body's power to transform and restore our health. Pioneering physician/scientist Dr. William Li empowers readers by showing them the evidence behind over 200 health-boosting foods that can starve cancer, reduce your risk of dementia and beat dozens of avoidable diseases. Eat to Beat Disease isn't about what foods to avoid but rather is a life-changing guide to the hundreds of healing foods to add to your meals that support the body's defense systems, including plums, cinnamon, jasmine tea, red wine and beer, black beans, San Marzano tomatoes, olive oil, Pacific oysters, cheeses like Jarlsberg, Camembert and Cheddar, sourdough bread. The book's plan shows you how to integrate the foods you already love into any diet or health plan to activate your body's health defense systems: angiogenesis, regeneration, microbiome, DNA protection and immunity to fight cancer, diabetes, cardiovascular, neurodegenerative, autoimmune diseases and other debilitating conditions. Both informative and practical, Eat to Beat Disease explains the science of healing and prevention, the strategies for using food to actively transform health and points the science of wellbeing and disease prevention in an exhilarating new direction.
