dashwood argues that it was the class interests of the ruling elite of zimbabwe that explains the failure of the government to devise a coherent socially sensitive development strategy in conjunction with market based reforms state of the nation south africa 2007 offers 22 diverse angles on contemporary south africa in one compelling and comprehensive collection the politics section focuses on the outcome of the 2006 local government elections and issues of service delivery the economy section examines the rapidly growing social welfare net the state of our public health systems and the topics of water and the environment heritage and tourism violence against women prison reform the plight of south africa s former guerrilla fighters transformation in south african rugby and the post apartheid role of the church all come under the spotlight in the society section the volume concludes with a look at trends in the continuing involvement of south african business on the african continent south africa s part in the complex search for peace and stability in the democratic republic of congo and the life of the vast zimbabwean exile community in south africa this book is an exploration of the political history of insurgency in southern rhodesia during the early years of its struggle zapu employed non violent means to try and achieve its goal for majority rule and a non racial society because of the belligerancy of the white settler regime zapu added the armed resistance to its strategy and went on to build a formidable army problems escalated and alliances were built and dissolved until tired of being hunted down and butchered the zapu leadership decided to merge its party with the ruling party in december 1987

this study presents a break with previous literary criticism that has vilified orality in an effort to understand the interface between orality and the black zimbabwean novel it traces the ways in which the african oral story telling tradition has survived within the black zimbabwean novel in english the author critically analyses the works of eight leading zimbabwean creative writers revealing how they have used oral story telling traditions in their literature he argues that throughout the colonisation liberation and post independence periods african orature was and remains a mode of expressing resistance to authoritarian ideas and cultural dominance and a social vision controversy arose in august 2002 over the arrival on the shores of southern africa of a consignment of food aid from the united states that contained genetically modified maize one african country after another rejected the shipment citing a variety of concerns this led to dispute between certain donor agencies and several southern african governments over the safety of genetically modified food this study analyses the conundrum facing southern african countries over whether they should accept genetically modified food crops as a component of food aid it sketches the evolution of the debate that has been dominated by the global scientific and development media giving an in country perspective it defines the stakeholders and their roles and details the experiences of lesotho malawi zambia and zimbabwe finally it considers possible policy interventions and the policy frameworks required at national and regional levels zimbabwe is a country whose longer past and shifting post independence politics have both included violent histories as well as often violent contested over history itself the politics of the past in zimbabwe addresses the many ways in which pasts are variously experienced remembered claimed denied or contested by differently positioned actors and how this in turn shapes the politics of the present it explores how such contestation is expressed in literature art and the media through exhumations and reburials in state apology and political myth making and in both traditional cultural heritage sites and the making of new national symbols contributors are jocelyn alexander elleke boehmer shadreck chirikure simbarashe shadreck chitima lena englund shari eppel petina gappah amanda hammar pedzisai maedza owen maseko mphathisi ndlovu minna johanna niemi astrid rasch timothy scarneccchia thomas thondhlana katja uusihakala this book interrogates the often controversial civil military relations debate in zimbabwe the study argues that theoretically civil military relations cmr describes the relationship between civil society as a whole and the military organization or organizations established to protect it more narrowly it describes the relationship between the civil authority of a given society and its military institutions studies of civil military relations often rest on a normative assumption that civilian control of the military is preferable to military control of the state this text demonstrates the complexity of relationship between military institutions and civic societies particularly in developing countries the methodology employed here is a mixture of internationally recognised scholarly works supplemented by extensive interviews arising from international benchmarking with similar institutions worldwide this coherent and accessible book brings the history of civil military relations up to date exploring a variety of perspectives and newly emerging practices in developing countries whose experience in this field is relatively new in both theory and practice
