what's new in translation studies in offering a critical assessment of recent developments in the young discipline this book sets out to provide an answer as seen from a european perspective today many new ideas actually go back well into the past and the german romantic age proves to be the starting point the main focus lies however on the last 20 years and beginning with the cultural turn of the 1980s the study traces what have turned out since then to be ground breaking contributions new paradigms as against what was only a change in position on already established territory shifting viewpoints topics of the 1990s include nonverbal communication gender based translation studies stage translation new fields of interpreting studies and the effects of new technologies and globalization including the increasingly dominant role of english the author's aim is to stimulate discussion and provoke further debate on the current profile and future perspectives of translation studies translation studies presents an integrated concept based on the theory and practice of translation the author adapts linguistic approaches and methods in such a way that they may be usefully employed in the theory practice and analysis of literary translation the author develops a more cultural approach through text analysis and cross cultural communication studies the book is a contribution to the development of translation studies as a discipline in its own right a replacement of the author's well known book on translation theory in search of a theory of translation 1980 this book makes a case for descriptive translation studies as a scholarly activity as well as a branch of the discipline having immediate consequences for issues of both a theoretical and applied nature methodological discussions are complemented by an assortment of case studies of various scopes and levels with emphasis on the need to contextualize whatever one sets out to focus on part one deals with the position of descriptive studies within ts and justifies the author's choice to devote a whole book to the subject part two gives a detailed rationale for descriptive studies in translation and serves as a framework for the case studies comprising part three concrete descriptive issues are here tackled within ever growing contexts of a higher level texts and modes of translational behaviour in the appropriate cultural setup textual components in texts and through these texts in cultural constellations part four asks the question what is knowledge accumulated through descriptive studies performed within one and the same framework likely to yield in terms of theory and practice this is an excellent book for higher level translation courses the study of translation is constantly expanding in a world that is experiencing a flourish of translated texts unparalleled in human history new courses on translation theory of translation and translation studies are being introduced at university level all over the world this book provides a panorama of the many ways in which the complex phenomenon of translation is analysed the contributions to this volume by a group of leading international scholars include traditional and new approaches in an interdisciplinary perspective translation studies has been defined in terms of spatial metaphors stressing the need for disciplinary border crossings with the purpose of borrowing different approaches orientations and tools from diverse academic fields such territorial incursions have resulted in a more thorough exploration of the home province as this volume is designed to show the interdisciplinary nature of the venture arises out of the multiplicity of terrains involved and the theoretically motivated definition of the object itself translation has been perceived as communication in context hence the study of translated texts as facts of target cultures means that they need to be investigated within particular situational and sociocultural environments an enterprise which necessarily requires the collaboration of various disciplines this volume has grown out of a conference held at the university of lisbon in november 2002 and collects a selection of papers that focus on the crossdisciplinarity of translation studies offering new perspectives on the current space of translation on the importation and redefinition of theories methodologies and concepts for the study of translation and on the complex interplay of text and context in translation creating dynamic interfaces with sociology literary theory cultural studies discourse analysis cultural history among other disciplines this volume offers a selection of issues currently encountered by scholars working within the broadly understood discipline of translation studies the contributions here discuss topical and recurrent issues which have long been at the forefront of this discipline such as phraseology corpora quality of interpreting translator training censorship style proper names and receptor oriented translation in addition they also deal with relatively recent developments such as humour and multimodality in audiovisual translation and those problems rarely conclusively addressed in the context of translation namely impoliteness and paratexts bringing together authors from eight countries namely the uk spain germany austria poland italy the usa and new zealand the volume offers research into translation from a variety of methodological solutions and conducted across eight languages english spanish catalan polish german italian chinese and greek despite the diversity of themes presented the main research areas emerging from all the contributions fall into four thematic groups 1 lexicological issues and corpora in translation studies 2 quality and translator training 3 audiovisual translation and 4 literary translation
