if you are a musician who wants to discover how to connect with any crowd win them over and make them love you and your music then this book will teach you the exact methods used by the most successful musicians on the planet have you ever been on stage performing your music only to discover that the crowd is just not that into you does the audience sometimes seem unimpressed with your show even though your music is good are there times when you just can't seem to grab the crowd and you don't know what to say or do to draw them in and win them over if you answered yes to any of these questions you are certainly not alone as musicians we have probably all had that experience and it's a really awful feeling isn't it you want the crowd to love you and when they don't it's embarrassing and really hard to take but the good news is that it's very likely that the problem is not that you lack talent or passion for your music it's much more likely that the problem is in the way you present your music and yourself to the audience you are just not connecting with the crowd here's what i'm talking about as musicians we put our hearts and souls into our music and we just want to share it with the rest of the world but in the real world it's just not that easy when you are on stage it would be much easier if the audience would judge you only on the music you perform but the truth is they won't they will also judge you on what you say to them between songs how confident you appear to be what your attitude is toward them whether you smile and appear friendly how you handle mistakes on stage how you make them feel whether you touch them emotionally how much energy you project on stage plus a whole lot more that is beyond just the physical act of making good music you know when you think about it success in the music business is really about making the audience happy that's how you get lots of fans and lots of gigs and if you want to get paid for what you do then it's important to remember that in the music business the money is in the pockets of the fans so if you want to be successful put the audience first in all that you do not yourself not even your music always make them your highest priority and they will love you for it understand that the audience comes to your live show for one reason only they want to be entertained and have a good time it takes more than just good music to have a great live show and that's where most performers fail they don't know how to engage the audience and make that important connection and the truth is if they don't like you as a person then it won't really matter how good of a musician you are so let me ask you this wouldn't it feel great to have the audience in the palm of your hand knowing that they love what you do how would it feel to perform for hundreds or maybe even thousands of raving fans and finally get the recognition you deserve how would it feel to experience the pure adrenalin pumping excitement that happens when you really kill it on stage don't waste all the months and years of hard work you've put into developing your musical talent just because you don't know how to present your music to the audience in the best way possible you owe it to yourself and your music to discover how to really grab the crowd and make them love what you do now forgive me for sounding a little overly dramatic here but think of what it may cost you in the future if you don t have this knowledge what will your show look like a year from now will it be any better than it is now will you have more fans than you have now will you be making more money with your music than you are now or will you still be struggling along trying to figure out why people aren t crazy about you and your music is your musical success worth 29 95 order today
