the failure of the attempts to create a ukrainian state during the 1917 21 revolution created a large ukrainian émigré community in central europe which due to its experience of fighting the bolsheviks developed a decidedly anti communist ideology of integral nationalism however during the 1920s some in the ukrainian emigration rejected this doctrine and began to advocate reconciliation with their former enemies and return to soviet ukraine this included some of the most prominent figures in the ukrainian governments set up after 1917 for example mykhailo hrushevskyi volodymyr vynnychenko and yevhen petrushevych on the basis of published and unpublished writings of the sovietophile émigrés christopher gilley reconstructs and analyzes the arguments used to justify cooperation with the bolsheviks in particular he contrasts those who supported the soviet regime because they saw the bolsheviks as leaders of the international revolution with those who stressed the apparent national achievements of the soviet ukrainian republic in addition gilley examines soviet policy towards pro soviet émigrés and the relationship between the émigrés and the bolsheviks using documents from historical archives in kyiv the ukrainian movement is compared to a similar phenomenon in the russian emigration smena vekh change of signposts the book contributes to the study of the era of the new economic policy and ukrainianization in the soviet union as well as to the histories of the ukrainian emigration in the 1920s and of ukrainian political thought recent events in ukraine and russia and the subsequent incorporation of crimea into the russian state with the support of some circles of inhabitants of the peninsula have shown that the desire of people to belong to the western part of europe should not automatically be assumed discussing different perceptions of the ukrainian russian war in neighbouring countries this book offers an analysis of the conflicts and issues connected with the shifting of the border regions of russia and ukraine to show how material and psychological borders are never completely stable ideas the contributors historians sociologists anthropologists and political scientists from across europe use an interdisciplinary and comparative approach to explore the different national and transnational perceptions of a possible future role for russia this book is the first comprehensive survey of ukrainian historical writing in north america during the cold war the author describes the development of ukrainian historical studies in canada and the united states as an open sometimes difficult dialogue between the ukrainian ethnic and academic communities on the one hand and between ukrainian scholars and western academic mainstream on the other he focuses on the institutional and the intellectual issues including various interpretations of major topics related to the ukrainian national grand narrative considering them in the evolving academic and political contexts of slavic east european and soviet studies disorder erupted in ukraine in 2014 involving the overthrow of a sitting government the russian annexation of the crimean peninsula and a violent insurrection supported by moscow in the east of the country this adelphi book argues that the crisis has yielded a ruinous outcome in which all the parties are worse off and international security has deteriorated this negative sum scenario resulted from years of zero sum behaviour on the part of russia and the west in post soviet eurasia which the authors rigorously analyse the rivalry was manageable in the early period after the cold war only to become entrenched and bitter a decade later the upshot has been systematic losses for russia the west and the countries caught in between all the governments involved must recognise that long standing policies aimed at achieving one sided advantage have reached a dead end charap and colton argue and commit to finding mutually acceptable alternatives through patient negotiation exploration of the historical legacy cultural relations economic ties and communications between poland and ukraine
