in a focused and compelling discussion anis bawarshi looks to genre theory for what it can contribute to a refined understanding of invention in describing what he calls the genre function he explores what is at stake for the study and teaching of writing to imagine invention as a way that writers locate themselves via genres within various positions and activities he argues in fact that invention is a process in which writers are acted upon by genres as much as they act themselves such an approach naturally requires the composition scholar to replace invention from the writer to the sites of action the genres in which the writer participates this move calls for a thoroughly rhetorical view of invention roughly in the tradition of richard young janice lauer and those who have followed them instead of mastering notions of good writing bawarshi feels that students gain more from learning how to adapt socially and rhetorically as they move from one genred site of action to the next the concept of woman as having a distinctive nature and requiring a separate sphere of activity from that of man was pervasive in the thinking of nineteenth century americans so dominant was this horizon of expectations for woman that the imaginations of our finest novelists were often subverted even as they attempted to expand the possibilities for women through their fiction selecting five american writers james fenimore cooper nathaniel hawthorne william dean howells henry james and edith wharton schriber traces the impact of cultural expectations for woman on the art of the novel from the early nineteenth century through the advent of modernism the novels of cooper and hawthorne exemplify the male imagination at work before the concept of woman's nature and sphere became burning issues as they did later in the century howells while attempting to expand woman's sphere in his fiction in response to feminist challenges in fact demonstrates the recalcitrance of a priori ideas james provoked rather than subverted by the ideology of gender was able to bend the culture's myopia to his own artistic purposes wharton's novels in contrast document the female imagination seeking aesthetic solutions to the problems of women rather than to woman as problem wharton constructs versions of female experience that were either invisible or anathema to her male counterparts schriber s discussion centers on those points in each text at which the culture s horizon of expectations drives the decisions and choices of the artist sometimes to the benefit and sometimes at the expense of craft making full use of gender as a category of literary analysis she recovers the meanings intended by the texts for audiences of their own time and distinguishes those meanings from their significance for modern readers original in its methodology and insights gender and the writer s imagination provides a model for future literary studies seminar paper from the year 2015 in the subject english language and literature studies literature grade 1 0 university of frankfurt main institut für england und amerikastudien course a l kennedy fiction language english abstract the coat of arms that is currently depicted on the spanish flag may feature a lion as a heraldic animal but during the past centuries of iberian cultural history the taurine brute especially the so called toro de osborne brandes 780 781 has become the country s unofficial more popular and widely known trademark symbol ibid this development is of course rooted in the nation s continuous passion for the bullfight and along with the flamenco dance the custom performance of tauromachy remains a pillar of patriotic identity for many spaniards it comes as no surprise then that the corrido features heavily in a wide selection of publications of virtually all literary genres among the more recent works in this field alison louise kennedy s on bullfighting provides an introduction to the past and present of the tauromachy tradition and combines it with the scottish novelist s perspective on the act of literary composition as a non fictional version of kennedy narrates her progress in researching and writing about the corrido to the reader the following pages explore how she establishes parallels between the routines passions and beliefs of the literary artist and the matador respectively and then uses them to underline how both are devoted to exerting and expanding a level of control in their approaches to life and work for the writer this is particularly relevant with regards to his or her handling of inspiration and its implementation in the written word and the paper therefore closes with remarks on whether or not on bullfighting s a l kennedy succeeds in regaining her authoritative power over both aspects of her profession as she struggles through depression and a severe writer s block connected to past emotional trauma
