from the author of the last mughal and nine lives the classic stories he gathered during the ten years he spent journeying across the indian subcontinent from sri lanka and southern india to the north west frontier of pakistan as he searched for evidence of kali yug the age of darkness predicted by an ancient hindu cosmology in a final epoch of strife and corruption dalrymple encountered a region that thrilled and surprised him venturing to places rarely visited by foreigners he presents compelling portraits of a diverse range of figures from a hindi rap megastar through the tamil tigers to the drug lords of pakistan dalrymple's love for the subcontinent comes across in every page which makes its chronicles of political corruption ethnic violence and social disintegration all the more poignant the result is a dark yet vibrant travelogue and a unique look at a region that continues to be marked by rapid change and unlimited possibilities as it struggles to reconcile the forces of modernity and tradition traveling india in the age of gandhi is a study of armchair travel writers who journeyed to india during what has often been termed the age of gandhi placed between 1914 1948 most of the travel writers surveyed understood this era to be a unique time in world history in india and elsewhere on the globe the lingering trauma of world war i the rise of radical state ideologies in russia italy japan and germany world wide depression in the 1930s along with a host of other unsettling political cultural and technological realities revealed a world of bewildering complexity and uncertainty for many of the travel writers surveyed in this work india was the main drama in a shifting global landscape moreover many viewed it as the ultimate travel experience a journey that tested one's capacity to fully engage the earth's most compelling forms of human diversity and suffering although a few notable figures are included most of the authors in the study constitute a breed of largely forgotten travel writers this work is an attempt to extract the core of their observations impressions and conclusions concerning what they saw and experienced particularly concerning indian aspirations for independence and india as the world's most exotic human landscape this book is a study of contemporary travel writing as a contested field of political and historical articulations it poses the question of the relevance of the travel form in a world that is both flagrantly unequal and extensively mapped the book demonstrates how contemporary travel writing negotiates with the changing conditions of travel and identifies history as an important trope and theme in this negotiation the work critically examines the writings of acclaimed travel writers like vs naipaul william dalrymple amitav ghosh sudeep chakravarti and alice albinia each of these writers is chosen for their distinct historical perspectives and political stances on indian and south asian politics moreover it meticulously examines how these authors interpret and engage with the socio political realities of post independence india through the optics of travel the book offers a comprehensive exploration of how ethical interests historical orientations and critical political insights converge to shape contemporary travel writing by illuminating the complex interplay of travel politics and history the book sheds light on the dynamics of representation and narrative construction within the travel genre
