throughout this text valerie shaw addresses two key questions what are the special satisfactions afforded by reading short stories and how are these satisfactions derived from each story s literary techniques and narrative strategies she then attempts to answer these questions by drawing on stories from different periods and countries by authors who were also great novelists like henry james flaubert kafka and d h lawrence by authors who specifically dedicated themselves to the art of the short story like kipling chekhov and katherine mansfield by contemporary practitioners like angela carter and jorge luis borges and by unfairly neglected writers like sarah orne jewett and joel chandler harris honourable mention in the 2023 british association for contemporary literary of the anglophone short story in south africa since apartheid s end by focusing on the short story this book complicates models of south african literature dominated by the novel and contributes to a much needed generic and formalist turn in postcolonial studies literary texts are sites of productive struggle between formal and extra formal concerns and these brief fragmentary elliptical formally innovative stories offer perspectives that reframe or revise important concerns of post apartheid literature the aesthetics of engaged writing the politics of the past class and race the legacies of violence and the struggle over the land through an analysis of key texts from the period by nadine gordimer ivan vladislavić zoë wicomb phaswane mpe and henrietta rose innes this book assesses the place of the short story in post apartheid writing and develops a fuller model of how artworks allow and disallow forms of social thought this collection explores the history and development of the anglophone short story since the beginning of the nineteenth century covering a range of topics settings and styles the book offers the first comprehensive study of short fiction from the first world war this book considers the key critical interventions on short story writing in south africa written in english since the year 2000 the short story genre whilst often marginalised in national literary canons has been central to the trajectory of literary history in south africa in recent years the short story has undergone a significant renaissance with new collections and young writers making a significant impact on the contemporary literary scene and subgenres such as speculative fiction erotic fiction flash fiction and queer fiction expanding rapidly in popularity this book examines the role of the short story genre in reflecting or championing new developments in south african writing and the ways in which traditional boundaries and definitions of the short story in south africa have been reimagined in the present drawing together a range of critical interventions including scholarly articles interviews and personal reflective pieces the volume traces some of the aesthetic and thematic continuities and discontinuities in the genre and sheds new light on questions of literary form finally the book considers the place of the short story in twenty first century writing and interrogates the ways in which the short story form may contribute to or recast ideas of the post apartheid or post transitional the perfect guide to contemporary short story writing in south africa this book will be essential reading for researchers of african literature the success of the caine prize for african writing and the growth of online publishing have played key roles in putting the short story in its rightful place within the study and criticism of african literature african writers have much more than the critics recognized the beauty and potency of the short story always the least studied in african literature classrooms and the most critically overlooked genre in african literature today the african short story is now given the attention it deserves contributors here take a close look at the african short story to re define its own peculiar pedigree chart its trajectory critique its present state and examine its creative possibilities they examine how the short story and the novel complement each other or exist in contradistinction within the context of culture and politics history and public memory legends myths and folklore ernest emenyonu is professor of africana studies at the university of michigan flint usa the editorial board is composed of scholars from us uk and african universities nigeria hebn excerpt from the short story with introduction and notes every short story has three parts which may be called setting or background plot or plan and characters or character if you are going to write a short story as i hope you are you will find it necessary to think through these three parts so as to relate them interestingly and naturally one to the other and if you want to assimilate the best that is in the following stories you will do well to approach them by the same three routes about the publisher forgotten books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books find more at forgottenbooks.com this book is a reproduction of an important historical work forgotten books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy in rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition we do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works this collection of short stories has two purposes first to give to the general reader interesting specimens of the best narration second within small compass to supply the teacher or student of english composition with varied and profitable material for study of the art of narrative writing pref includes brief introductory biographies of the authors from the introduction i propose in the following pages to discuss the practice of the short story in english the vagueness of the term short story is apparent no less apparent is the existence in every literature and period of groups of narratives which we can call by no other name the literatures of ancient greece of buddhistic india of medieval france and arabia for each of them readers will bring to mind a well marked well recognized genre which to day we should put under the short story classification the fable the milesian story the birth story of the jatakas the fabliau and conte each name suggests a type of literary expression employed for very definite purposes as writers or readers named the sonnet the ballade the chanson so they named these varieties of short narrative and felt with more or less reason that in each case man was endeavoring to express his idea of life in a particular and chosen fashion if we feel the vagueness of short story as used in a historical review of our narrative literature it is not because there are no short stories which in the age of their birth were employed in literary work of a special nature we would scarcely think the words vague if nothing definite were to be named by them nor is it because of the impossibility of marking off from long narrative the short narrative which is to be given a name that difficulty is serious only for the rhetorician the fault is rather in the loose meaning of the phrase where short seems to qualify without defining we cannot escape this inconvenience except by creating a new terminology a task far less profitable than the study of a considerable and much neglected literature indeed just what has constituted the short story in english is a question better answered at the end than at the beginning of such an investigation nevertheless it is evident without further discussion that the writers who in many tongues and times have used a short narrative to convey their ideas are in one respect very often alike no matter what their subject matter may be morality indecency high imagination or human nature they have wished to procure a certain effect which could best be gained by a short story they have wished to turn a moral as in a fable or to bring home in a fabliau an amusing reflection upon life or to depict a situation as in the typical short story of to day and in every case a brief narrative with its one unified impression best served them it is the short narrative used for life units where only brevity and the consequent unified impression would serve that becomes the short story is this definition sufficient only a study of a given literature will show if it will work as the pragmatists say it is sufficient but in so working it is neither requisite nor possible that hard and fast lines of division should result where to place many whitish yellow and yellowish white peoples is a problem for anthropologists yet we call the very black man negro without hesitation certain limitations however must be imposed at the outset plots circulating through every tongue are often independent of strictly literary or cultural movements we however must concern ourselves primarily with written literature it is the history and development of an art which we follow an art by means of which all manner of familiar experiences can be put into form and made marketable plots circulate in all ways their history is matter for folk lore and psychology it is the short story as it appears in recorded english literature and the growth of its usefulness therein which is the subject of this volume delve into literature and discover exactly what a short story is what makes a great short story how are characters important what is a setting using great examples from past and present this book explains clearly what is meant by a short story then prompts children to write their own
