it is no longer news that the western world is in a crisis a crisis that has spread far beyond its point of origin and become global in nature in 1927 rené guénon responded to this crisis with the closest thing he ever wrote to a manifesto and call to action the crisis of the modern world was his most direct and complete application of traditional metaphysical principles particularly that of the age of darkness preceding the end of the present world to social criticism surpassed only by the reign of quantity and the signs of the times his magnum opus in the present work guénon ruthlessly exposes the western deviation its loss of tradition its exaltation of action over knowledge its rampant individualism and general social chaos his response to these conditions was not activist however but purely intellectual envisioning the coming together of western intellectual leaders capable under favorable circumstances of returning the west to its traditional roots most likely via the catholic church or under less favorable ones of at least preserving the seeds of tradition for the time to come first published in 1963 the book pilgrim in the modern world tries to answer fundamental questions like does the christian faith meet intellectual moral and spiritual needs of the contemporary situation or it is like the irreducible surd in a mathematical problem present as a fact but to be ignored in use I j baggott has had a long experience in the ministry of the church of england from work in the slums to that of abbey minster and cathedral from a chaplaincy of the tower of london to the vicariate of large industrial parishes from a visiting lectureship to the parochial tasks peculiar to four great seaports from the supervision of ordinands to the archdeaconship of a hundred peaceful norfolk villages throughout it has become increasingly clear that man is indeed the eternal pilgrim of the infinite christianity is an historical religion of which redemption of man is the central and ruling thought for twentieth century man his pilgrimage is set in most challenging era that man has ever known a scientific era and a temporal order in which his most important problems take their rise and shape his life in the light of new knowledge and discovery the book offers what the author believes the only valid and satisfying answer to the question of relevancy of the christian faith for modern times this is a must read for scholars of religion and christianity love in many premodern cultures extended to and permeated the world or even the cosmos but love in contemporary consumerist society tends to be sexualized romanticized and individualized as a result ancient visions of ethical love are difficult for moderns to comprehend especially those rooted in premodern western thought or native american thinkers that describe a love of the natural world that would help us live more responsibly on the earth this volume retrieves the significant narratives of love of the world and the concomitant ethical ramifications of those visions and argues that our age of science and technology has destroyed the ancient living cosmos of previous visions and replaced it with a mechanical universe this shift has resulted in various forms of destruction diminishment and forgetfulness overcoming modern world alienation requires recovering a sense of what it means to love the world and changing our practices to reflect our interconnection with it and our interdependency on it
