Scholars from theology, cultural studies, sociology, history, and media studies, along with neo-pagan commentators outside of the academy, come together to investigate the experiences of thousands of adolescents constructing an enabling magical identity through a distinctive practice of witchcraft. The contributors discuss key areas of interest: inspiration and development within the teen witch communities from the mid 1990s onward; teenage witches' magical practices and beliefs; gender politics; the formation and identification of communities; forums and modes of expression; media representation; and new media outlets demonstrating the diversification and expansion of neo-paganism in the 21st century.
