kierkegaard's account of the life of faith turns on an astonishing claim a person living faithfully continually enjoys and takes part in everything what can this assertion actually mean the pseudonymous author of fear and trembling johannes de silentio imagines what such a human being might look like indeed as de silentio puts it he looks just like a tax collector this seemingly ordinary person in his movements of faith finds infinite significance and an absorbing joy in his environment from moment to moment how does he do it this characterization of faithful comportment is unique in the kierkegaardian corpus and becomes the tantalizing centerpiece of an exploration of the kierkegaardian self sheridan hough embarks on a groundbreaking existential phenomenological investigation of the uncanny abilities of the faithful life through an analysis of kierkegaard's spheres of existence each sphere reveals a specific kind of significance and indeed a way of being in the world hough employs a distinctively original narrative voice one that examines kierkegaard's ontology from the perspective of his pseudonymous voices and from the characters that they create this approach is both descriptive and diagnostic by understanding what someone living out an aesthetic ethical or a religious existence seeks to achieve the phenomenon of the faithful life and its demands comes into sharper focus this faith is not simply some thought about god's greatness indeed the propositional content of faith is a central issue of the book instead hough argues that kierkegaardian faith is the hallmark of the fullest flowering of a human life one achieved in ways only hinted at in the demeanor of the cheerful and enigmatic tax collector an existential task in which temporality finitude is what it is all about
