The study presented here is one of urban poverty, household survival and social institutions that both enable and control the decision making of poor women in America. First and foremost, it is about a public health program, the Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants and Children, known more commonly as WIC, and how the institution re-inscribes persistent stereotypes of the urban poor on the women it eagerly wishes to serve, despite encountering opposition and occasionally humiliation at the hands of those chosen to serve many low-income women throughout the United States and Puerto Rico. Return to WIC every month because it represents a rite of passage that characterizes pregnancy. Enrolling in WIC prenatally signifies to others the importance of providing for one's family in spite of socioeconomic disadvantage. Yet whether women access WIC benefits or not, their lived realities include a painful and enduring connection between urban poverty and health inequalities, particularly inequalities leading to poor birth outcomes and infant mortality, as explored in this urban ethnography.

With an eye for the humorous even in the most trying circumstances, Liz Curtis Higgs encourages women with her message of hope and laughter. In these three bestselling books, Exploding the Myth that Only Thin is Beautiful, One Size Fits All, and Other Fables, looks at the ways women can fight the world's perception of what they should be and feel good about it. Only Angels Can Wing It tells about the challenges women face keeping up with the day-to-day pace without losing sight of the really important things: God, family, and yourself. Help I'm Laughing and I Can't Get Up continues her honesty with a hilarity approach to life that will have every woman seeing herself dealing with and conquering both the ridiculous and the real obstacles we all find in our daily journey.
