the story of america tells our story because it is important in itself it is a great epic and the unique tale of how hundreds of millions of people took possession of a vast continent often at the expense of the original inhabitants the story of america contains many original documents and lengthy excerpts from primary and secondary sources these include eyewitness accounts poems song lyrics diary entries and excerpts from a variety of other sources more than ever before the home is featured in books magazines sunday newspapers and on television whether as a concept or a physical place it represents a key site of personal development in line with this there has recently been a move towards the domestic as the new avant garde in contemporary art and design practice in stark contrast however the maintenance of home remains a daily struggle in many parts of the globe but wherever we are one thing is clear home is profoundly symbolic the domestic sphere is a highly fluid and contested site of human existence that reflects and reifies identity and values regrettably much of the dialogue around the home has taken place as separate conversations within disparate disciplines this new interdisciplinary journal is the first forum wholly dedicated to the critical understanding of the domestic sphere across timeframes and cultures
