in this book meredith martin presents a historical account of prosodic criticism and through the example of her own research path argues for new scholarly practices in literary studies and the humanities more broadly challenging the common scholarly practice of emphasizing one critical narrative one pathway through history or one author s reading the book traces three arcs the effects of the major shift in the late twentieth century from print based to digital resources in scholarship with the emergence of the world wide martin s experience as a scholar who coordinated a digital project about the history of the study of poetry which led to the creation of the princeton prosody archive and the founding of princeton s center for digital humanities cdh and the mix of computational and aesthetic elements in the study of prosody including the study of versification and meter in the broader context of english literary study as a discipline across these three arcs martin argues that scholars must take seriously the idea of digital media as mediation through which textual forms are transformed into data and delivered to us via data structures and that our reading of historical texts in digital forms must reckon with these mediations she also demonstrates the connection between the intellectual labor of studying prosody or any historical object and the intellectual labor of fostering a collaborative research process this is a book she writes about the shifting grounds of knowledge production in the digital age and how we might situate ourselves amid these shifts by returning to of all things poetry it seems that it should go without saying that i want my book to sell a ton of copies however i must be perfectly honest my goal for this book is simple and straight forward and that is to reach as many souls with the love of christ as i can sure it would be great if i sold a million copies but the money that i would make from doing so would not even begin to compare to the joy of reaching a million souls with the deep and overwhelming sense of peace and joy that my lord has so graciously shown me through these past 22 years of being one of his earnest followers i have great joy in being as real with everyone as i can be so i will be real with you now if you are going through a hard time if you truly know what deep and genuine pain feels like or even if you would simply like to enjoy some christ centered positive ending easy to read poetry and assertions then i assure you that you will not be disappointed in reading through this book i pray that it is a blessing to all those who come across it sincerely trevor unashamed slone
