the nineteenth century novel identities provides an ideal starting point for understanding gender in the novels of this period it explores the place of fiction in constructing gender identity within society at large considering madame bovary portrait of a lady and the woman in white the book continues with a consideration of the novel at the fin de siecle examining dracula the awakening and heart of darkness these fascinating essays illuminate the ways in which the conventions of realism were disrupted as much by anxieties surrounding colonialism decadence degeneration and the new woman as by those new ideas about human psychology which heralded the advent of psychoanalysis the concepts which are crucial to the understanding of the literature and society of the nineteenth century are brilliantly explained and discussed in this essential volume these essays are clearly not about play as unseriousness not about fun and games a point that should be abundantly demonstrated by the reference to the death camps of the holocaust they are about the space the spielraum necessary for the wheel of life to turn soulfully christine downing s essays may be felt to function as a possible prelude to the play of a truly ludic imagination which like buber s slow medicine quietly enters the soul working into the heart awakening a secret melody to be noticed only later preludes indeed david l miller author of three faces of god and hells and holy ghosts explaining changes in the political consciousness of the oppressed using the ideas of paulo freire albert memmi and jungian psychology this original book explores how psychological bonds of oppression are broken and offers a psychopolitical theory for the analysis of the autobiographies of four native people in guatemala and canada nothing short of a masterpiece one of the great critical works produced since the 1950s new york times

drawing upon critical social theorists like habermas depth psychologists like jung and phenomenologists like hussert denhardts shows how the ethic of organization inhibits the individual s search for meaning and then discusses strategies for enhancing the individual s role he champions independence expressiveness and creativity over discipline regulation and obedience
